How to Do Things with Words J. L. Austin, 1975-04-15 Assembles the twentieth century philosopher's ideas and conclusions regarding issues and problems pertaining to word usage How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, 1967 How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, 1976 How to Do Things with Words J. L. Austin, 1975-04-15 John L Austin was one of the leading philosophers of the twentieth century The William James Lectures presented Austin's conclusions in the field to which he directed his main efforts on a wide variety of philosophical problems These talks became the classic How to Do Things with Words How to Do Things with Words Marina Sbisa, J. O. Urmson, 1986 How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, James Opie Urmson, Oxford University Press, 1967

A Study of "How to Do Things with Words" by J.L. Austin Sally Caroline Faith Webb, 1967 How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, 1982 How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, 1965 How to Do Things with Pornography Nancy Bauer, 2015-04-06 In Nancy Bauer's view most feminist philosophers are content to work within theoretical frameworks that are false to human beings everyday experiences Here she models a new way to write about pornography women's self objectification hook up culture and other contemporary phenomena and in doing so she raises basic questions about philosophy Third Voice Michael P. Knowles, 2021-01-14 What makes for powerful preaching Careful exegesis logical structure interesting illustrations and clear speech can all help But truly transformative preaching depends on divine power not human skill alone Those who would reduce preaching to simple systems or sure fire strategies for success will find little of interest here Instead this book appeals to those pastors and academics alike who find themselves confounded by the occasional futility of their best preaching and the unexpected success of their worst It invites readers to enter more deeply into the uncontrollable mystery that attends all efforts to speak in the name of Christ above all on the topic of resurrection Although the gospel always turns our attention to the crucified and risen Lord preaching about resurrection calls us to trust that the same God who raised Jesus from death will likewise grant life to us as preachers to our sermons and to our hearers alike Drawing on resources as diverse as Luther's understanding of the Christian gospel Speech Act theory and Bhabha's concept of Third Space Third Voice Preaching Resurrection argues that the true key to effective preaching is not rhetoric but spirituality How Words Make Things Happen David Bromwich, 2019-04-04 Sooner or later our words take on meanings other than we intended How Words Make Things Happen suggests that the conventional idea of persuasive rhetoric which assumes a speaker's control of calculated effects and the modern idea of literary autonomy which assumes that poetry makes nothing happen together have produced a misleading account of the relations between words and human action Words do make things happen But they cannot be counted on to produce the result they intend This volume studies examples from a range of speakers and writers and offers close readings of their words Chapter 1 considers the theory of speech acts propounded by J L Austin Speakers Who Convince Themselves is the subject of chapter 2 which interprets two soliloquies by Shakespeare's characters and two by Milton's Satan. The oratory of Burke and Lincoln come in for extended treatment in chapter 3 while chapter 4 looks at the rival tendencies of moral suasion and aestheticism in the poetry of Yeats and Auden. The final chapter a cause of controversy when first published in the London Review of Books supports a policy of unrestricted free speech against contemporary proposals of censorship. Since we cannot know what our own words are going to do we have no standing to justify the banishment of one set of words in favour of another. James, 1 & 2 Peter, and Jude (Teach the Text Commentary Series) Jim Samra, 2016-11-15 Focused Biblical Scholarship to Teach the Text. The Teach the Text Commentary Series utilizes the best of biblical scholarship to provide the information a pastor needs to communicate the text effectively. The carefully selected preaching units and focused commentary allow pastors to quickly grasp the big idea and key themes of each passage of Scripture. Each unit of the commentary includes the big idea and key themes of the passage and sections dedicated to understanding teaching and illustrating the text. The newest New Testament release in this innovative commentary series is Jim Samra's treatment of James 1 2 Peter and Jude. How to Do Philosophy with Words Jesús Navarro, 2017-01-26 Nowadays philosophy is characterized by such heterogeneous intellectual practices that its very unity and coherence seem endangered. What is especially disconcerting is that most authors manage to largely ignore the very existence of methodological positions radically different from their own. Fortunately there have been exceptions and the present volume focuses on one of them: the failed debate that took place between John Searle and Jacques Derrida. This book thoroughly analyses that exchange contextualizing it within the respective philosophical traditions of the two thinkers with the general aim of turning their dispute into what it was not: a respectful, sensible and fruitful controversy. This episode is thus taken as an opportunity to reflect on the peculiar nature of philosophy as an intellectual practice and to discuss some of its main themes: language as an instrument for communication, the intentionality of consciousness and difference as a constitutive element of every text. What is History Now? D. Cannadine, 2002-07-05 E. H. Carr's What is History was originally published by Macmillan in 1961. Since then it has sold hundreds of thousands of copies throughout the world. In this book ten internationally renowned scholars writing from a range of historical vantage points answer Carr's question for a new generation of historians: What does it mean to study history at the start of the Twenty-first century? This volume stands alongside Carr's classic paying tribute to his seminal enquiry while moving the debate into new territory to ensure its freshness and relevance for a new century of historical study. The Anthropological Turn in Literary Studies Jürgen Schläeger, 1996 Promise and Prayer Anthony C. Thiselton, 2020-11-12 In the Bible promise and prayer are essential and connected components of the interpersonal relationship between God and his people. And both promise and prayer are kinds of action undertaken by means of speaking utterances philosophers refer to as speech acts. In the case of promises this is clear: they constitute firm commitments to act in certain ways under appropriate conditions. This book considers biblical examples of divine promise from both Old and New Testaments. All speech acts depend upon institutional facts and Thiselton argues that in the biblical writings Divine promises are based on the prior institution of God's covenant. That same covenant forms the institutional context of prayer. Thiselton shows how different kinds of prayer blessing thanksgiving and praise petition and intercession count as speech acts in different ways and to different degrees.

Presidential Power, Rhetoric, and the Terror Wars Alexander Hiland, 2019-10-21 Presidential Power Rhetoric and the Terror Wars The Sovereign Presidency argues that the War on Terror provided an opportunity to fundamentally change the presidency. Alexander Hiland analyzes the documents used to exercise presidential powers including executive orders signing statements and presidential policy directives. Treating these documents as genres of speech act that are ideologically motivated Hiland provides a rhetorical criticism that illuminates the values and political convictions at play in these documents. This book reveals how both President George W. Bush and President Barack Obama wielded the personal power of the office to dramatically expand the power of the executive branch. During the War on Terror the presidency shifted from an imperial form that avoided checks and balances to a sovereign presidency where the executive branch had the ability to decide whether those checks and balances existed. As a result Hiland argues that this shift to the sovereign presidency enabled the violation of human rights myriad policy mistakes and the degradation of democracy within the United States.

The Bonds of Freedom Garry Deverell, 2008-12-01 This book proposes that Christian worship is a key source for any theology seeking to understand the covenant between God and human beings in the Christian tradition. Through a detailed examination of phenomenological biblical and theological sources the author seeks to write a theology in which the selfhood of both God and human beings is seen as essentially vowed or covenantal. This claim is then explored through a detailed examination of Eucharistic worship which is understood as a non-identical performance of the covenant established between God and human beings in baptism. Here then is a theology that understands Christian worship not simply as form or event but more radically as a mutual act of promising and commitment between God and human beings.
