Alternative Treatments for Troubled Youth R.L. Amdur, William S. Davidson, C.M. Mitchell, R. Redner, 2013-06-29 The purpose of this volume is to present the whole story of our research program on alternative interventions with delinquent youth It is our goal to describe the development of an alternative intervention model to examine its salient processes to provide a test of its relative effective ness and to give a description of its systemic impacts The process described was based on the notion that improvement in our approaches to troubled youth lies in a systematic examination of the efficacy of innovative models. As the reader is probably aware, the history of interventions with troubled youth is more a record of failure than success. Thus the search for alternatives is extremely critical. The book proceeds as a detailed research monograph. The first four chapters describe the historical and theoretical antecedents of the development of the research program. Chapters 5 through 11 describe research on the efficacy of alternative intervention approaches for delinquent youth, research on the impact on nonprofessional change agents, an attempt to integrate contemporary theoretical propositions about delinquency causation and the effects observed, and research examining the systemic consequences of providing innovative interventions to delinquent youth. The final chapter integrates the findings with contemporary work and provides suggestions for future work.

Home Equity and Ageing Owners Lorna Fox O'Mahony, 2012-01-06 The growing use of housing equity to support a range of activities and needs raises complex issues particularly for older owners. In an environment in which older owners are pushed towards housing equity transactions to meet income and welfare costs, they are required to make choices from a complex and sometimes bewildering range of options. The transactions which facilitate the use of home equity as a resource to spend in later life, from trading down and ordinary secured and unsecured debt to targeted products including reverse lifetime mortgages, home reversion plans and sale and rentback agreements, raise important legal and regulatory issues. This book provides a contextual analysis of the financial transactions that older people enter into using their housing equity. It traces the protections afforded to older owners through the ordinary law of property and contract as well as the development of specific regulatory protections focused on targeted products. The book employs the notion of risk to highlight the nature and causes of the situational vulnerabilities to which older people are now subject as consumers of housing equity, showing that the older owner's personal situation is crucial in determining whether and why they may seek to release equity, the options and products available to them, and the impact of harms resulting from adverse transactions. The book critically evaluates the extent to which this context is incorporated in the legal frameworks through which these transactions are governed, as a measure of the appropriateness of existing legal provision as well as considering the arguments surrounding special protection for older owners in housing equity transactions.

Feminist Political Ecology Dianne Rocheleau, Barbara Thomas-Slayter, Esther Wangari, 2013-04-15 Feminist Political Ecology explores the gendered relations of ecologies, economies and politics in communities as diverse as the rubber tappers in the rainforests of Brazil to activist groups fighting racism in New York City. Women are often at the centre of these struggles, struggles which concern local knowledge, everyday practice, rights to resources, sustainable development, environmental quality and social justice. The book bridges the gap between the academic and rural orientation of political ecology and the largely activist and urban focus of environmental justice movements.
