regarding the legality of mergers Indeed the national competition laws applied by the regulating authorities may diverge in several aspects which raise the likelihood of inconsistency Therefore it is desirable to opt for regulatory approaches which are more sensitive to the transnational nature of mergers and which allow cooperation between competition authorities A possible solution may be bilateral cooperation agreements through which two countries coordinate the enforcement activities of their national competition authorities However the benefits of these agreements are enjoyed only by the signatory parties The sole reliance upon bilateral agreements does not appear to be the optimal regulatory approach towards transnational mergers

Cache Conscious Column Organization in In-memory Column Stores David Schwalb, Jens Krüger, Hasso Plattner, 2013 Cost models are an essential part of database systems as they are the basis of query performance optimization Based on predictions made by cost models the fastest query execution plan can be chosen and executed or algorithms can be tuned and optimised In memory databases shifts the focus from disk to main memory accesses and CPU costs compared to disk based systems where input and output costs dominate the overall costs and other processing costs are often neglected However modelling memory accesses is fundamentally different and common models do not apply anymore This work presents a detailed parameter evaluation for the plan operators scan with equality selection scan with range selection positional lookup and insert in in memory column stores Based on this evaluation a cost model based on cache misses for estimating the runtime of the considered plan operators using different data structures is developed Considered are uncompressed columns bit compressed and dictionary encoded columns with sorted and unsorted dictionaries Furthermore tree indices on the columns and dictionaries are discussed Finally partitioned columns consisting of one partition with a sorted and one with an unsorted dictionary are investigated New values are inserted in the unsorted dictionary partition and moved periodically by a merge process to the sorted partition An efficient attribute merge algorithm is described supporting the update performance required to run enterprise applications on read optimised databases Further a memory traffic based cost model for the merge process is provided
