Helping The Elderly The Complementary Roles Of Informal Networks And Formal Systems:

Helping the Elderly Eugene Litwak,1985      Helping the Elderly Eugene Litwak,1985-01-01      The Social Basis of Community Care (Routledge Revivals) Martin Bulmer,2015-06-11 Care for the elderly disabled and mentally ill within and by the community forms a vital part of current social policy Martin Bulmer argues that this policy is inadequately thought out and rests on a series of poorly founded sociological assumptions As a result there is a vacuum at the heart of government s social care policy which is likely to lead to ineffective or deteriorating provision for those in need This book first published in 1987 will be essential reading for all those concerned with the organization and delivery of social care whether as students practitioners or teachers It will be particularly useful for courses dealing with social policy the personal social services and the social context of social work      Chronic Illness Ilene Morof Lubkin,Pamala D. Larsen,2002 Focuses on the various aspects of chronic illness that influence both patients and their families Topics include the sociological psychological ethical organizational and financial factors as well as individual and system outcomes      Researching Social Gerontology Sheila M Peace,1990-09-28 This accessible introduction to key concepts methods and issues in social gerontological research presents a unique view of the research process by focusing on the relationships between conceptual definition and research methodology and between research policy and practice At a theoretical level the text draws on the core gerontological concepts of age dependency social support and quality of life to illustrate their complexity and the difficulties of measurement On a practical level the contributors present a number of methodological approaches which have been particularly useful in social gerontological research Finally they consider three critical issues whether old people require special ethical consideration the prospects for funding and the importance of disseminating research effectively Researching Social Gerontology has been specially commissioned by the British Society for Gerontology to outline current thinking in conceptual and methodological development and the context in which gerontological research is being carried out As such it will prove stimulating and useful for researchers at all levels practitioners policy makers and those with a more general interest in the ageing process      Aging Harry R. Moody,2006-01-13 Welcome to the world s most unique and dynamic textbook on aging Widely praised and adopted in previous editions the Fifth Edition of Aging once again presents key issues in an engaging and accessible fashion Organized unlike any other traditional textbook author Harry R Moody presents basic concepts followed by controversies supported by carefully chosen adapted readings The result is the most captivating introduction to gerontology available today      Handbook of Social Support and the Family Gregory R. Pierce,I.G. Sarason,2013-06-29 While insights sometimes are slow in coming they often seem obvious when they finally arrive This handbook is an outcome of the insight that the topics of social support and the family are very closely linked Obvious as this might seem the fact remains that the literatures dealing with social support and the family have been deceptively separate and distinct For example work on social support began in the 1970s with the accumulation of evidence that social ties and social integration play important roles in health and personal adjustment Even though family members are often the key social supporters of individuals relatively little research of social support was targeted on family interactions as a path to specifying supporter processes It is now recognized that one of the most important features of the family is its role in providing the individual with a source of support and acceptance Fortunately in recent years the distinctness and separateness of the fields of social support and the family have blurred This handbook provides the first collation and integration of social support and family research This integration calls for specifying processes such as the cognitions associated with poor support availability and unrewarding family constellations and factors such as cultural differences in family life and support provision that are pertinent to integration      Family, Self, and Society Philip A. Cowan, Dorothy Field, Donald A. Hansen, Arlene Skolnick, Guy E. Swanson, 2014-05-22 Any agenda for family research in the 1990s must take seriously a contextual approach to the study of family relationships The editors and contributors to this volume believe that the richness in family studies over the next decade will come from considering the diversity of family forms different ethnic groups and cultures different stages of family life as well as different historical cohorts Their goal is to make more explicit how we think about families in order to study them and understand them To illustrate the need for diversity in family studies examples are presented from new and old families majority and minority families American and Japanese families and intact and divorcing families This variety is intended to push the limits of current thinking not only for researchers but also for all who are struggling to live with and work with families in a time when family life is valued but fragmented and relatively unsupported by society's institutions Students and researchers interested in family development from the viewpoint of any of the social sciences will find this book of value      Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life Jon Hendricks, 2019-04-04 The debate over national health insurance has renewed attention on the health and health care utilization of the elderly Few questions have been more poignant than the health of the United States elderly As a broad ranging critical look Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life brings the central questions facing the elderly into bold relief It spans the range of health concerns the elderly face daily The debates over health care rage often without having the relevant facts Health and Health Care Utilization in Later Life brings the facts to the fore but just as importantly it brings a sensitive feeling for the realities of health as a driving force in the daily lives of old people      Social Work and Health Care in an Aging Society Barbara Berkman, 2003-06 Sixteen chapters by scholars of social work relate the well being of older adults to social work practice and the current model of service delivery Chapters concentrate on issues affecting the health of older adults depression dementia abuse services to specific populations African American women grandparents raising grandchildren the developmentally disabled and professional issues home care case management standardized assessment The implications for training research and policy are highlighted Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews.com      Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 24, 2004 Merrill Silverstein, PhD, 2004-11-18 This volume examines the importance of time and place as applied to aging families In the first section chapters focus on the temporal dimension of intergenerational relations using frameworks from human development sociology social history and social psychology The second section focuses on the social ecology of intergenerational relations in terms of the national contexts within which families are embedded The contributors demonstrate how the social cultural historical and institutional forces that orient older and younger family members toward each other in both structured and adaptive ways

Their families The purpose of this book is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future Global Aging and Its Challenge to Families Vern L. Bengtson, Ariela Lowenstein, The recent explosion in population aging across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history There is much concern about population aging and its consequences for nations for governments and for individuals It has often been noted that population aging will inevitably affect the economic stability of most countries and the policies of most state governments What is less obvious but equally important is that population aging will profoundly affect families Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrow s very old members of societies Will it be state governments The aged themselves Their families The purpose of this volume is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future Four remarkable social changes during the past fifty years are highlighted 1 Extension of the life course A generation has been added to the average span of life over the past century 2 Changes in the age structures of nations Most nations today have many more elders and many fewer children than fifty years ago 3 Changes in family structures and relationships Some of these differences are the result of trends in family structure notably higher divorce rates and the higher incidence of childbearing to single parents 4 Changes in governmental responsibilities In the last decade governmental responsibility appears to have slowed or reversed as states reduce welfare expenditures How will families respond to twenty first century problems associated with population aging Will families indeed be important in the twenty first century or will kinship and the obligations across generations become increasingly irrelevant replaced by personal communities This volume goes a considerable distance to answer these critical issues for the twenty first century Vern L Bengtson is an AARP University Chair in Gerontology and Professor of Sociology University of Southern California Ariela Lowenstein is associate professor and head Department of Aging Studies University of Haifa Israel

Daughters Who Care Jane Lewis, Barbara Meredith, 2024-05-10 In the 1980s as the proportion of elderly people in the population grew steadily larger the task of looking after them would fall increasingly on one group daughters The government in promoting its move in social policy towards community care had stated that the family which in practice meant women must expect to provide the bulk of care in the future But how do women feel about this What impact does caring for others have on their own lives How might professional helpers better support them Originally published in 1988 from in depth interviews with daughters who have looked after their mothers for varying numbers of years Jane Lewis and Barbara Meredith look at why it is that women come to care and consider the legacy of their caring experiences Because caring is usually a labour of love the feelings that surround it are complicated and fraught with ambivalence In analysing these Daughters Who Care explores the meaning of caring from the carer s point of view as well as examining the implications for professionals seeking to support the supporters Carers themselves and those working with them professionally or as volunteers as well as students of community care social policies for the elderly and social psychology will all find this a stimulating approach to what is still an increasingly urgent issue
