HCV Infection and Cryoglobulinemia Franco Dammacco, 2011-11-19 The first observation of cold induced precipitation of serum proteins dates back to 1933 when Wintrobe and Buell first described an unusual case of multiple myeloma in a woman whose serum reversibly precipitated at cold temperatures In 1947 Lerner and Watson showed cold precipitable proteins to be gammaglobulins and called them cryoglobulins and the corresponding clinical condition cryoglobulinemia Meltzer and Franklin in 1966 provided an accurate description of the typical clinical symptoms associated with cryoglobulinemia showed that they consisted of two different globulin components and because of the ignorance on its etiology called this clinical condition essential mixed cryoglobulinemia For almost 20 years progress has been rather slow in this field but when at the end of the 80s it finally became possible to detect the occurrence in the serum of antibodies to the hepatitis C virus HCV

many groups in Europe and the United States almost simultaneously reported that a high proportion of essential cryoglobulinemias are in fact associated with HCV infection. This hallmark has resulted in a new impetus and great enthusiasm in carrying out new researches made possible by the awareness that cryoglobulinemia is to be considered an undisputable extrahepatic manifestation of HCV infection. In addition, the evidence that HCV has tropism for hepatocytes and lymphocytes has stimulated new approaches to the autoimmune phenomena and the potential transformation in non-Hodgkin's lymphomas which not infrequently can be discovered in these patients. The same applies to the obvious therapeutic implications once the association between HCV infection and mixed cryoglobulinemia has been firmly established. It was thus felt that times were ripe to produce a state of the art survey of the multi-faceted picture of cryoglobulinemia. This book is indeed unique in the detail of its presentation, its completeness and its fundamental approach to the subject. The most qualified authors have been invited to contribute critical articles reviewing significant developments related to each of the eight sections in which the whole treatment has been divided: from basic mechanisms governing interactions between HCV and the immune system to the immunochemical characterization of cryoglobulins and the frequently concomitant serological abnormalities; from genetic features and the role of certain cytokines and chemokines to the cellular compartments of HCV infection and replication; from the clinical manifestations of cryoglobulinemic patients and their potential susceptibility to develop non-Hodgkin's lymphoma to conventional treatment of the syndrome and the newer promising therapeutic advances. The reader will appreciate the immediacy of style, the striking illustrations and the color plates. In addition, the comprehensive review of a systemic disease such as cryoglobulinemia will interest basic scientists and specialists involved in several disciplines including internal medicine, hepatology, hematology, oncology, infectious diseases, rheumatology, nephrology and dermatology. General practitioners, graduate and post graduate students will also find in this book an irreplaceable source of update in this fascinating field.

Hepatitis C Virus and Liver Transplantation Marina Berenguer, 2013-09-11. Hepatitis C Virus and Liver Transplantation is designed to provide a comprehensive and state of the art overview of the major issues specific to the field of liver transplantation and hepatitis C virus infection. The sections of the book have been structured to review the overall scope of issues of recurrent hepatitis C in different complex settings including retransplantation, HIV coinfecting patients or in the setting of suboptimal graft donors. This book provides up to date information on the application of new therapies to the field of liver transplantation. It provides the most recent data on their efficacy, the management of side effects as well as the potential interactions and specific problems associated with their use in the transplant setting. Finally, an appraisal of the risks and benefits of using organs from anti-HCV positive donors is presented. This book provides concise and actual materials for several important topics that are simply not adequately covered by current available literature. Hepatitis C Virus and Liver Transplantation will provide a unique and valuable resource in the field of liver transplantation and will be of great value to Hepatologists, Transplant and Abdominal Surgeons, Oncologists as well as Fellows and Residents.
