The Steam Workshops of the Great Western Railway Ken Gibbs,2014-08-19 The nineteenth century was a time of innovation and expansion across the industrial landscape and nowhere more so than on the railways as the new age of iron steel and steam literally gathered pace At the head of the race up was the iconic Great Western Railway As this mighty corporation grew it absorbed an astonishing 353 railway companies Many of them had their own workshops depots and manufacturing often assembling locomotives to the designs of other companies All these along with the various designs became the responsibility of the GWR on takeover and followed its standardisation of components where this was possible These works became the beating heart of the GWR s vast empire where majestic engines were built and maintained by some of the most skillful and inventive engineers of the day Retired GWR railwayman Ken Gibbs presents a comprehensive portrait of the works from Brunel to the final days of steam in the mid twentieth century and beyond to the rediscovery and renovation of many of the workshops for their unique heritage Machinery and Production Engineering ,1920 The of hot rodding through this nostalgic look at vintage speed equipment When most people think of speed parts they rewind a few decades and think back to the Ford flatheads that were so prevalent in the 1940s and 1950s However did you know that the speed parts industry began way back in the Model T era It s true As soon as vehicles were mass produced manufacturers were looking for ways to make them faster Manufacturers such as Roof Rajo Winfield Miller Frontenac and Holley made speed parts for 4 cylinder Model T engines and accomplished speeds of up to 100 mph In Vintage Speed Parts The Equipment That Fueled the Industry veteran hot rod historian Tony Thacker looks at the history of hot rodding through the eyes of speed equipment manufacturers Covered chronologically the book begins with the early 4 cylinder engines In 1932 Henry Ford introduced the flathead V 8 which was slow to be adopted as the engine of choice in racing until the parts industry caught up Once it did the flathead although interrupted by the war was the engine to run until the automobile manufacturers introduced overhead valve V 8 engines in the late 1940s Chrysler s early 1950s Hemi and Chevrolet s small block V 8 in 1955 spelled the end for the flattie Both mills dominated well into the 1970s and the speed industry was there to support all platforms in spades During that period every auto manufacturer made a V 8 worthy of modification and the speed industry boomed Eventually the speed equipment manufacturers grew to the point of becoming corporate entities as mergers and acquisitions became the much less interesting story Parts covered include special cylinder heads magnetos camshaft and valvetrain upgrades downdraft carburetors headers multiple carburetor setups and even superchargers Everyone figured out how to make engines more powerful upgrading with the type of parts that were being produced decades later even to today Join in the fun of reviewing the history of speed through this fascinating tale of vintage speed parts Biennial Report of the Board of Regents to the Governor University of Nebraska (Lincoln campus).
