Literary Culture and U.S. Imperialism John Carlos Rowe, 2000

John Carlos Rowe considered one of the most eminent and progressive critics of American literature has in recent years

become instrumental in shaping the path of American studies His latest book examines literary responses to U S imperialism from the late eighteenth century to the 1940s Interpreting texts by Charles Brockden Brown Poe Melville John Rollin Ridge Twain Henry Adams Stephen Crane W E B Du Bois John Neihardt Nick Black Elk and Zora Neale Hurston Rowe argues that U S literature has a long tradition of responding critically or contributing to our imperialist ventures Following in the critical footsteps of Richard Slotkin and Edward Said Literary Culture and U S Imperialism is particularly innovative in taking account of the public and cultural response to imperialism In this sense it could not be more relevant to what is happening in the scholarship and should be vital reading for scholars and students of American literature and culture

Understanding Suicide and Its Prevention Federico Sanchez, 2010-06-15 Finally a book that explains suicide using the latest research in suicidology A must read for mental health professionals and the survivors of suicide who want to understand why suicide happens The material in this book should be incorporated into the curriculum of psychology and psychiatry because suicide is such a vital topic that is hardly covered in medical schools due to the lack of a coherent theory of the brain in general and suicide in particular This is an important book for all professionals who deal with mental disorders in general and suicide in particular It is the author s fifth book where suicide is explained not as a mysterious process but as a natural consequence of the reactions of the brain under certain conditions when suffering mental disorders The author begins with a brief summary of the statistics of the whos the hows and the wheres of suicide This gives us a clear idea of the magnitude of the problem of suicide of the cost not only in lives but of the emotional toll of the survivors as well as the financial burdens on society as a whole Then as an important first step to understanding the medical community s standard approaches to mental disease he reviews briefly the current psychiatric terminology and the diagnostic tools concerning mental disorders He presents the most accepted current theories and models of suicide He explains what a psychiatric emergency is and what to expect if one ever encounters such a situation And he explains how suicide risk assessment is currently done along with other important considerations He proceeds to explain in everyday language where possible his theory of how the brain works beginning with a simple explanation of how neurons communicate with each other Later he explains how the brain controls the body and how we see with the back of our heads how memory systems become a logical extension or expansion of our sensory and motor systems Awareness and attention are introduced first as an evolutionary tool that aids the senses gather more information from the environment and ultimately as tools that aid in thinking reasoning and constructing our past our lives and our identities But all this would mean nothing without the introduction of emotions and how the brain constructs contexts He explains how emotions are an integral part of memories and how these are related to contexts how basically the brain has created a very concise and compact filing memory system A clear explanation of how emotions are triggered regulated and dissipated is next These lead to a learned discussion of how these various systems can go haywire causing mental disorders A brief but perhaps new and revolutionary approach to these mental disorders is presented next including

Obsessive Compulsive Disorder Delirium Dementia and Other Amnestic Disorders Manic Depression and Depression and Schizophrenia Ultimately it becomes clear how under certain conditions these disorders can lead to suicide The difference between attempters and completers is also explained He then presents a suicide autopsy as an exercise to show how varied the opinions of experts in the field of suicidology are and compares it to his own theories and lets the reader decide for himself who is closer to the truth The fallacy of many expert opinions of where research needs to go is presented The book gives a few words of advice on various therapies and the rationality of their approaches and cautions against their limitations The book devotes a chapter to suicide prevention in the military and how these efforts are bound to fail and another chapter on suicide prevention The author makes important suggestions of how to prevent suicide and lessen suicide rates particularly among the young And lastly a chapter is devoted to the specifics of grief for suicide survivors
