A Reader's Guide to Contemporary Literature William Swan Sonnenschein,1896 Hindustani Traces in Malay Ghazal Gisa Jähnichen,Chinthaka Prageeth Meddegoda,2016-09-23 A song so old and yet still famous is a Malay expression of admiration for an exotic singing style a musical contemplation on the beauty of nature God and love The ghazal exists in manifold cultures all over Asia Africa and Southern Europe and is intimately connected to Islam and its periphery In each region ghazals have been shaped into other expressions using imported features and transforming them into local art In the Malay world ghazals come in various shapes and with different meanings The song so old is the song that came before the proliferation of mass media The first ghazals that were heard in the Malay world might have been those ghazals performed by Hindustani musicians traveling in Southeast Asia However later on the ghazal s development was additionally triggered by mass media with technological progress enhancing change in urban entertainment and introducing new sources of further adaptations In this context the second half line of the lyrics mentioned and yet still famous means that despite being old the song is highly regarded as an art in itself Malay ghazals are still attractive and musically demanding They were traditionally not performed for mass appeal but rather for a small knowledgeable audience that valued musical refinement and taste The Christian week ,1880 Classified Guide to
