As noted earlier, the 2004 election was a watershed year for the U.S. health insurance industry. The election of George W. Bush, who was elected on a platform of health care reform, resulted in a change of leadership in the U.S. House of Representatives. The new House leadership, headed by Speaker Dennis Hastert (R-IL), was more sympathetic to the health insurance industry than the previous House leadership, headed by Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-CA). This change in leadership was a significant factor in the passage of the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005, which included provisions that were favorable to the health insurance industry.
