Innovative Algorithms and Techniques in Automation, Industrial Electronics and Telecommunications Tarek Sobh, Khaled Elleithy, Ausif Mahmood, Mohamed Karim, 2007-09-04 Innovative Algorithms and Techniques in Automation Industrial Electronics and Telecommunications includes a set of rigorously reviewed world class manuscripts addressing and detailing state of the art research projects in the areas of Industrial Electronics Technology not only the reviewing submissions and registration processes but also the actual conference Conference participants authors presenters and attendees only needed an internet connection and sound available on their computers in order to be able to contribute and participate in this international ground breaking conference The on line structure of this high quality event allowed academic professionals and industry participants to contribute work and attend world class technical presentations based on rigorously refereed submissions live without the need for investing significant travel funds or time out of the office Suffice to say that CISSE received submissions from more than 70 countries for whose researchers this opportunity presented a much more affordable dynamic and well planned event to attend and submit their work to versus a classic on the ground conference The CISSE conference audio room provided superb audio even over low speed internet connections the ability to display PowerPoint presentations and cross platform compatibility the conferencing software runs on Windows Mac and any other operating system that supports Java In addition the conferencing system allowed for an unlimited number of participants which in turn granted CISSE the opportunity to allow all participants to attend all presentations as opposed to limiting the number of available seats for each session

Data-Driven Fault Detection for Industrial Processes Zhiwen Chen, 2017-01-02 Zhiwen Chen aims to develop advanced fault detection FD methods for the monitoring of industrial processes With the ever increasing demands on reliability and safety in industrial processes fault detection has become an important issue Although the model based fault detection theory has been well studied in the past decades its applications are limited to large scale industrial processes because it is difficult to build accurate models Furthermore motivated by the limitations of existing data driven FD methods novel canonical correlation analysis CCA and projection based methods are proposed from the perspectives of process input and output data less engineering effort and wide application scope For performance evaluation of FD methods a new index is also developed
