10 # The following code is a simplified version of the code in the previous cell.
11 # It uses the same variables as the previous cell, but it uses a different
12 # function to calculate the probability of a word given the previous words.
13 # The function is called 'word_prob' and it takes a list of words as input.
14 # It returns a list of probabilities for each word in the list.
