Savage Mind to Savage Machine Ginger Nolan,2021-06-29 An examination of how concepts of the savage facilitated technological approaches to modernist design Attempting to derive aesthetic systems from natural structures of human cognition designers looked toward the savage mind a way of thinking they associated with a racialized subaltern In Savage Mind to Savage Machine Ginger Nolan uncovers an enduring relationship between the savage and the development of technology and its wide ranging impact on society including in the fields of architecture and urbanism the industrial arts and digital design Nolan focuses on the relationship between the applied arts and the structuralist social sciences proposing that the late nineteenth century rise of Freudian psychology ethnology and structuralist linguistics offered innovations and new opportunities in studying human cognition She looks at institutions ranging from the Public Industrial Arts School of Philadelphia and the Weimar Bauhaus to the MIT Media Lab and the Centre Mondial Informatique revealing a persistent theme of twentieth century design to supplant language with more subliminal aesthetic modes of communication thereby inculcating a deep intimacy between human habit and new technologies of production communication and consumption This book s ultimate critique is of the development of the ergonomics of the spirit the design of the human cognitive apparatus in relation to new aesthetic technologies Nolan sees these ergonomics as a means of depoliticizing societies through aesthetic technologies intended to seamlessly integrate humans into the programs of capitalist modernity Revising key modernist design narratives Savage Mind to Savage Machine provides a deep historical foundation for understanding our contemporary world

Tactical Publishing Alessandro Ludovico, 2024-01-16 How to level up to the next transformative phase of publishing with a critical methodology that transcends the dichotomy of paper and digital media production Publishing is experiencing one of the most transformative phases in its history In Tactical Publishing a sequel to Post Digital Print Alessandro Ludovico explores the forces driving this historical phase highlighting the tremendous opportunities it presents Our task he believes is to develop an alternative publishing system that transcends the dichotomy between paper and digital media He focuses first on the two activities on which publishing is premised reading and writing with an emphasis on writing machines and post truth in the latter and then deconstructs the concept proposing alternative strategies inspired by recent practices and unconventional uses of technology Ludovico shows how the radical and strategic use of print in the past can serve as the basis for our transition to the next phase of publishing He argues that the new ecology of publishing should be based on three main elements the stimulation of our senses the role of software in forming the publishing infrastructure and the importance of archives During this transition from the current post digital phase to the next phase independent publishers and artists as well as readers and machines will enable new structures and actions that realize the potential of publishing and the preservation of content thereby enriching social practices The author also considers the crucial social role played by new forms of libraries as artists and publishers shape the coming publishing world in its various manifestations Combining analytical accounts of tactical strategies with examples from artworks and experimental practices the book concludes with a manifesto for publishing in the twenty first century and an appendix with a selection of one hundred publications representing the periodic table of future publishing
