COLLECTIVE INSTITUTIONS IN INDUSTRIALIZED NATIONS: Economic Lessons for sub-Saharan Africa

Samuel Enajero, Ph.D., 2015-12-08 Fundamental institutions are core values that originate from beliefs Beliefs reflect on behaviors and repeated behaviors become habits Shared habits are peoples values which when ingrained become norms and customs Societies that believed in human interdependency formed collective institutions These institutions are compatible with modern economic prosperity Thus Contrary to conventional economic teaching which implies that behaviors including preferences are biologically determined all socially relevant behaviors including economic behaviors are acquired learned and routinized through habits institutions in which individuals find themselves Again contrary to popular beliefs that economics is about pursuit of self interest as stipulated by Adam Smith 1776 the pursuit of self interest does not translate to selfishness For example an entrepreneur relies on public capitals and skilled labors to succeed a producer relies on adequate consumption to produce at capacity a firm s profit is enhanced with higher consumer income etc Therefore capitalism is a function of collective institutions Collectivism is a solution to group interdependency People sharing the same space are interdependent and are faced with interdependency costs Interdependency cost equals external cost plus decision making cost Failures to eliminate or minimize external costs externalities through collectivization of activities result to resource misallocation The problem of sub Saharan Africa Moreover modern development theories are constructed around macroeconomic variables Money banking interest rate savings trade liberalization financial assets deficit and debt management are modern macroeconomic development tools These are based on aggregation of data and variables Thus collectivism is more pronounced in macroeconomic policies Yet many emerging nations of sub Saharan Africa do not find it mandatory to build all inclusive economies by mobilizing resources en masse Macroeconomics Paul R. Krugman, Robin Wells, 2009-02-28 Paul Krugman is one of the leading economic thinkers of our time The examples he uses in this book include international experiences so will appeal to a European audience and give students a more realistic view of how economics works in the real world Economic Analysis and Law Christopher E.S. foundational information for readers who are also interested in international law and economics and the essence and interpretations of international conventions appertaining to money expropriation the environment and investments in international financial markets This book is a useful reference for both undergraduate and graduate students who are interested in law and economics forensic economics corporate white collar crime and legal studies It is also valuable for certificate programs for paralegals who wish to have a basic understanding of economic and financial concepts

Economics as an Empirical Social Science Daniel Weißbrodt, 2024-07-08 Economics still adheres entirely unreflectively to a mechanistic worldview and machine thinking Epistemologically it thus remains in the 19th century and its assumptions and theories methods and models therefore stand in stark contradiction to the findings of all other social and natural sciences as well as a multitude of empirical facts Through a discourse analytical examination of sixteen basic concepts in economics based on twelve standard economics textbooks their ideahistorical origin and use are worked out and compared and related to the current state of knowledge of other disciplines This reveals the structural methodological and content errors of economics in a clear manner Especially for critical students who have long been demanding an economics that is in line with the current state of research and faces the challenges of the 21st century this opens up the possibility of a new approach to economics The Content Discourse analytical examination of fundamental assumptions and concepts of economics from labor to wealth Structural methodological and content critique of economic thinking from an epistemological perspective Critical examination of the use of empirical and statistical data the method of gaining knowledge and the model thinking in economics
