Behavior of the White Shark, Carcharodon Carcharias, and Scalloped Hammerhead, Sphyrna Lewini A. Peter Klimley, 1984 Capture records of 109 white sharks caught along the western coast of North America indicate the following life history pattern Adult females give birth to pups during the late summer and early fall south of the Point Conception to live both inshore or offshore at islands As females continue to grow they move back south of Point Conception yet remain offshore probably to give birth to young It is believed that the areal distribution of the shark is governed by the availability of pinniped prey for adults and possibly the need for pupping grounds with few predators and competitors The area with the highest abundance of sharks is the coastline within the Point Reyes Farallon National Marine Sanctuary A multisensor computer interfaced telemetry system has been built Transmitters have sensors for monitoring swimming speed depth surrounding water temperature and light level Expansion board hardware converts pulsed telemetry signals to TTL logic Software has been written to 1 convert time intervals into sensor values 2 display 8 channels of sensor values either numerically or graphically 3 display sensor values of a single channel graphically with high resolution and 4 store the sensor data on floppy disk The system will be used to describe predation by the white shark on pinnipeds and orientational behavior in pelagic sharks

Sharks: Conservation, Governance and Management Erika J. Techera,Natalie Klein,2014-06-05 The key aim of this book is to explore the global conservation and management of sharks There has been a rapid decline in populations of many shark species while new science has emerged of the critical role they play in marine ecosystems However the authors show that conservation law and policy have been slow to develop with only a small number of iconic species being protected worldwide The increase in fishing impact primarily through shark finning and by catch has led to shark conservation receiving greater international attention in recent years The book explores our current knowledge and status of the law and science in relation to sharks with a particular focus on improving frameworks for their conservation and management Recent trends are analysed including shark finning bans that have been put in place in several countries the widening number of nations establishing shark sanctuaries and the growth of shark based tourism The efficacy of current listing processes for endangered species and fisheries regulations is also examined Tourism is explored as an alternative to fishing and the risks and impacts associated with this industry are analysed Contributors include leading authorities from universities and conservation organizations in North America Europe and Australia A common theme is to emphasise the importance of collaborative governance between various interest groups and the need for inter disciplinary research and management approaches that are necessary to address the decline in sharks

Sharks of the Mediterranean Alessandro De Maddalena, Harald Bänisch, Walter Heim, 2015-12-11 This comprehensive study of sharks of the Mediterranean Sea provides a great deal of information about shark biology human shark interactions recent research and ecology and conservation in the region The authors cover classification common names morphology size reproduction diet habitat distribution behavior status and references to source materials for 50 species Illustrations include dozens of rare photos and detailed author drawings

Sharks of New England Alessandao De Maddalena, 2010-09-01 Those who think sharks are a predominantly tropical species will be in for quite a surprise when they learn that the cold waters of New England are home to 33 different species The aim of this book is to provide both accurate scientific information on sharks and to profile those species that inhabit the waters of New England

Marine Fisheries Review ,2004

The Sharks of North America Jose I. Castro, 2011-07-28 A complete reference to all the sharks inhabiting North American waters with excellent color illustrations of all the species
