Beyond the Tragedy in Global Fisheries D. G. Webster, 2017-09-08 An analysis of how responsive governance has shaped the evolution of global fisheries in cyclical patterns of depletion and rebuilding dubbed the management treadmill The oceans are heavily overfished and the greatest challenges to effective fisheries management are not technical but political and economic In this book D G Webster describes how the political economy of fisheries has evolved and highlights patterns that are linked to sustainable transitions in specific fisheries Grounded in the concept of responsive governance Webster's interdisciplinary analysis goes beyond the conventional view of the tragedy of the commons Using her Action Cycle Structural Context framework she maps long running patterns that cycle between depletion and rebuilding in a process that she terms the management treadmill Webster documents the management treadmill in settings that range from small coastal fishing communities to international fisheries that span entire oceans She identifies the profit disconnect in which economic incentives are out of sync with sustainable use and the power disconnect in which those who experience the costs of overexploitation are politically marginalized She examines how these disconnects shaped the economics of expansion and documents how political systems failed to prevent related cycles of serial resource depletion Webster also traces the increasing use of restrictive management in response to worsening fisheries crises and the emergence of new noncommercial interests that demand greater management but also generate substantial conflict She finds that the management treadmill is speeding up with population growth and economic development and so concludes that sustainable fisheries can only exist within a sustainable global economic system

The Shadows of Consumption Peter Dauvergne, 2010-09-24 An environmentalist maps the hidden costs of overconsumption in a globalized world by tracing the environmental consequences of five commodities The Shadows of Consumption gives a hard hitting diagnosis many of the earth s ecosystems and billions of its people are at risk from the consequences of rising consumption Products ranging from cars to hamburgers offer conveniences and pleasures but as Peter Dauvergne makes clear global political and economic processes displace the real costs of consumer goods into distant ecosystems communities and timelines tipping into crisis people and places without the power to resist In The Shadows of Consumption Peter Dauvergne maps the costs of consumption that remain hidden in the shadows cast by globalized corporations trade and finance Dauvergne traces the environmental consequences of five commodities automobiles gasoline refrigerators beef and harp seals In these fascinating histories we learn for example that American officials ignored warnings about the dangers of lead in gasoline in the 1920s why China is now a leading producer of CFC free refrigerators and how activists were able to stop Canada s commercial seal hunt in the 1980s but are unable to do so now Dauvergne s innovative analysis allows us to see why so many efforts to manage the global environment are failing even as environmentalism is slowly strengthening He proposes a guiding principle of balanced consumption for both consumers and corporations We know that we can make things better by driving a high mileage car eating locally grown food and buying energy efficient appliances but these improvements are incremental local and insufficient More crucial than our individual efforts to reuse and recycle will be reforms in the global political economy to reduce the inequalities of consumption and correct the imbalance between growing economies and environmental sustainability of the organization and to combat extreme poverty hunger disease illiteracy environmental degradation and discrimination and violence against women The overall objective of the book is to highlight the conditions of vulnerable populations from various contexts globally and the role adult and higher education can play and is playing in advancing the United Nations agenda of social and economic justice and environmental sustainability Adult education through research teaching and service engagements is contributing to this ongoing effort but as many scholars have noted our work remains invisible and undocumented Therefore this book highlights adult education s critical partnership in addressing these global issues It will also begin to fill the void that exists in adult education literature on internationalization of the field

Elephant Treaties Rachelle Adam, 2014-01-07 Based on a legal history of international biodiversity treaties from the late nineteenth century to the present Rachelle Adam argues that today s biodiversity crisis is rooted in European colonial history especially in the conservation treaties that the colonial powers and their non governmental counterparts negotiated to protect Africa s big game animals Reflecting on the colonial past particularly on efforts to manage the commerce in elephant ivory Adam sheds light on why more recent attempts to arrest the decline in biodiversity by way of international agreement have failed This volume will spur a rethinking of such agreements and trigger a search for alternatives outside of existing international structures
