Greek Rhetorical Origins Of Christian Faith An Inquiry:

Greek Rhetorical Origins of Christian Faith James L. Kinneavy, 1987 What is the true of Christian faith Are the roots of this concept the same in both the Old and New Testaments With semantic historical and analytic evidence Kinneavy develops his hypothesis that the origin of some major aspects of the Christian concept of faith pistis in Greek can be traced to Greek classical rhetoric Kinneavy presents his case cumulatively with each stage differing substantially from traditional scholarship He begins by examining the notion of faith formulated by eight major Christian and Jewish theologians demonstrating that faith and rhetorical persuasion share certain important semantic elements which have made it possible for reach to accommodate the other The book goes on to present a meticulous case for the historical influence of Greek rhetoric on Hebraic thought specifically in the writers of the New Testament Contending that the effects of Hellenization were strongly felt particularly in the areas of Palestinian education and civic life his analysis opposes the prevailing isolation theories of early Christianity Kinneavy concludes with a novel rhetorical study of the several hundred occurrences of the Greek terms for faith and to believe searching for evidence of the contemporary meaning of persuasion and emerging with overwhelming support for the Greek influence on Christian faith A controversial and clearly argued work Greek rhetorical origins of Christian faith is a very original attempt to answer the age old question whence does faith spring and is an important contribution to the history of rhetoric Front flap

A Rhetoric of Doing Stephen Paul Witte, Neil Nakadate, Roger Dennis Cherry, 1992 Concerned with both the nature and the practice of discourse the eighteen essays collected here treat rhetoric as a dynamic enterprise of inquiry exploration and application and in doing so reflect James L Kinneavy's firm belief in the vital relationship between theory and practice his commitment to a spirit of accommodation and assimilation that promotes the development of ever more powerful theories and ever more useful practices A thorough introduction provides the reader with clear summaries of the essays by leading edge theorists researchers and teachers of writing and rhetoric A field context for the ideas presented in this book is provided through the division of the various chapters into four major sections that focus on classical rhetoric and rhetorical theory in historical contexts on dimensions of discourse theory aspects of discourse communities and the sorts of knowledge people access and use in producing written texts on writing in school related contexts and on several dimensions of nonacademic writing A fifth section contains a bibliographic survey and an appreciation of James Kinneavy's work The exceptional range of these essays makes A Rhetoric of Doing an ecumenical examination of the current state of mind in rhetoric and written communication a survey and description of what discourse and those in the field of discourse are in fact doing

The Educated Elite in 1 Corinthians Robert Dutch, 2005-06-04 This book examines the educated elite in 1 Corinthians through the development and application of an ancient education model The research reads Paul's text within the social world of early Christianity and uses social scientific criticism in reconstructing a model that is appropriate for first century Corinth Pauline scholars have used models to reconstruct elite education but this study highlights their oversight in recognising the relevancy of the Greek Gymnasium for education Topics are examined in 1 Corinthians to demonstrate where the model advances an understanding of Paul's interaction with the elite Corinthian Christians in the context of community conflict This study demonstrates the important contribution that this ancient education model makes in interpreting 1 Corinthians in a Graeco Roman context This is Volume 271 of JSNTS

Porter, 2006-11-01 Does Paul have a theology If so what is it or rather what is it on various topics that he and the early Church confronted This volume moves beyond the traditional discussion of whether Paul had a center to his theology to raise questions regarding his perspective on a number of important theological issues These issues include his gentile mission the concepts of faith grace and the law reconciliation the temple eschatology miracles gender and Paul's trinitarian tendencies This collection of essays addresses topics of current interest in the study of Paul's theology not to arrive at the center of his thought but to understand what factors helped to center his thinking on a variety of important theological concerns

The Persuasive Preacher David A. Christensen, 2020-07-16 How can we preach persuasively without huckstering manipulating or coercing people Sadly we are seeing the fall of many pastors not for reasons of sexual immorality but the pursuit of pride and power The skillful use of marketing methods creates celebrity pastors who become significant influencers in the evangelical church The lure of success is seductive turning pastors into hucksters and Christians into consumers We need to heed the warnings of the New Testament about the pride of rhetoric and the pursuit of power David Christensen carefully analyzes the biblical warnings of Paul about the temptations of rhetorical sophistry in the first century church and applies them to pastoral ministry today God calls preachers to be ethical and effective persuaders David develops an ethical grid for pastoral persuasion using principles drawn from the Bible and social science along with practical illustrations from his years of ministry He calls preachers to be ethical and effective persuaders by emphasizing the centrality of the word of God while depending on the power of the Spirit of God

Studies Andrea A. Lunsford, Kirt H. Wilson, Rosa A. Eberly, 2008-10-29 The SAGE Handbook of Rhetorical Studies surveys the latest advances in rhetorical scholarship synthesizing theories and practices across major areas of study in the field and pointing the way for future studies Edited by Andrea A Lunsford and Associate Editors Kirt H Wilson and Rosa A Eberly the Handbook aims to introduce a new generation of students to rhetorical study and provide a deeply informed and ready resource for scholars currently working in the field Example Stories Jeffrey Tucker, 1997-01-01 This study challenges the popular notion that four parables in the Gospel of Luke the Good Samaritan the Rich Fool the Rich Man and Lazarus and the Pharisee and the Toll Collector are example stories A wealth of scholars views on the example stories are scrutinized with Adolf Jnlicher s pivotal definition receiving special attention The various criteria used to distinguish between parable and example are assessed from both a literary and a rhetorical perspective in order to ascertain what if any formal features are peculiar to the example stories Tucker shows that attempts to differentiate the example stories from other narrative parables attributed to Jesus in the Synoptic Gospels are largely unsuccessful The result is that these four parables in the Gospel of Luke can be seen for what they really are Introduction to Scholarship in Modern Languages and Literatures David G.
