Dr. Peter Dinklage, author of How Light and Dark We See: Visual Illusions and the Science of Perception, explains why we see what we see. He discusses the science of perception, from the way our eyes work to the way our brains process the information. He also discusses the science of vision, from the way our eyes work to the way our brains process the information.

The Dark Side of the Ivory Tower John J. Sloan III,Bonnie S. Fisher,2010-09-30 A cursory reading of the history of US colleges and universities reveals that campus crime has been part of collegiate life since the Colonial Era yet it was not until the late 1980s that it suddenly became an issue on the public stage Drawing from numerous mass media and scholarly sources and using a theoretical framework grounded in social constructionism this text chronicles how four groups of activists college student advocates feminists victims and their families and public health experts used a variety of tactics and strategies to convince the public that campus crime posed a new danger to the safety and security of college students and the ivory tower itself while simultaneously convincing policymakers to take action against the problem Readers from a range of disciplinary interests will find the book both compelling and valuable to understanding campus crime as a newly constructed social reality
