Corporate Risk and National Security Redefined Karen Lund Petersen, 2012-02-06 Contemporary security policy is no longer a matter of protecting borders or fighting an identified foreign enemy With counterterrorism high on the security agenda private citizens and companies have all come to be seen as central to the aim of providing security Situated within the debate on terrorism risk and security Corporate Risk and National Security Redefined offers a detailed analysis of the role of private companies in American and Danish counter terrorism policies The book shows that a responsabilization strategy is central to both the American and Danish security policy a strategy which tends to portray security as a duty rather than the right that it traditionally has been considered as The study however finds that such strategies have been received very differently in the business communities of the two countries The book brings the corporate understandings of the relation between corporate risk and national security to the fore and let the reader in on a constant conceptual battle and negotiation on the meaning of national security and corporate risk Corporate Risk and National Security Redefined will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations critical security business and terrorism

IT Security Risk Management in the Context of Cloud Computing André Loske, 2015-10-30 This work adds a new perspective to the stream of organizational IT security risk management literature: one that sheds light on the importance of IT security risk perceptions. Based on a large scale empirical study of Cloud providers located in North America, the study reveals that in many cases the providers' decision makers significantly underestimate their services' IT security risk exposure, which inhibits the implementation of necessary safeguarding measures. The work also demonstrates that even though the prevalence of IT security risk concerns in Cloud adoption is widely recognized, providers only pay very limited attention to the concerns expressed by customers, which not only causes serious disagreements with the customers but also considerably inhibits the adoption of the services.
