

It's Not Easy Being Green

It's not that easy being green;
Having to spend each day the color of the leaves.
When I think it could be nicer being red, or yellow or gold...
or something much more colorful like that.

It's not easy being green.
It seems you blend in with so many other ord'nary things.
And people tend to pass you over 'cause you're not standing out like flashy sparkles in the water or stars in the sky.

But green's the color of Spring.
And green can be cool and friendly-like.
And green can be big like an ocean, or important like a mountain,
or tall like a tree.

When green is all there is to be
It could make you wonder why, but why wonder why?
Wonder, I am green and it'll do fine, it's beautiful
And I think it's what I want to be.

What happens when a lifelong gardener finally realizes he must collaborate with Mother Nature rather than work against her to achieve his dream of creating the perfect garden? In this delightful and thoughtful narrative journey of horticultural discovery, Bill Terry asks how and even why we garden and to what end. These are personal stories, thoughts and ideas about the perfect garden interspersed with humorous imagined conversations with Mother Nature herself. As he works in his West Coast garden, choosing wild roses over fancy hybrid teas and discarding man-made cultivars in favour of the charm and simplicity of peonies, hellebores and tulips, Terry learns to welcome and encourage happy accidents, greatly reducing the work and effort required to maintain order as most gardeners seek to do, and embrace a substantial measure of disorder. The perfect garden he discovers respects both Mother Nature's demands by integrating endemic plants and choosing natural species and varieties and the gardener's personality, expressing their own taste and creativity and embodying private memories. This is a witty collection of reflections that will appeal to gardeners everywhere. Soupergreen! Doug Jackson, 2021-06-21. SOUPERgreen features projects and essays that offer a long overdue critique of the current approach to green architecture and in turn demonstrate a more appropriate way for architects to address the challenges posed by the environmental crisis. In sharp contrast to contemporary examples of green or sustainable architecture which primarily rely upon the invisible agency of unremarkable technologies and materials to reduce resource consumption but which do so without producing a necessary shift in the public's perception of the environment or behavior towards it, SOUPERgreen demonstrates how green technology can not only perform from a measurable standpoint but can also produce engaging experiences that profoundly alter, enhance and transform the public's understanding of the environment. By leveraging the inherently expressive nature of technology in order to dramatize the constantly negotiated relationship between humanity and the natural world, the souped-up green architecture featured in SOUPERgreen transforms greenness from a mere measurement of environmental performance into an actively engaged and highly conscious lived reality, resulting in a new way of experiencing and understanding the environment that is inherently more ecological.
