Pugh, David John Hickson, 1989-08 In this highly personal work Boulding traces his lifelong search for human betterment. Believing that human betterment required certain economic changes he studied economics as an undergraduate at Oxford. A careful examination of the American labour movement however convinced him that economics alone could not solve the problems of human betterment. Boulding's later involvement in the study of conflict resolution and the analysis of world culture eventually led him to evolutionary theory which has occupied much of his time and energy since the late 1960s.

Great Writers on Organizations Derek S. Pugh, David J. Hickson, 2016-04-22 Great Writers on Organizations presents succinctly each of the contributions made by 80 of the most prominent management thinkers to the understanding of organizational behaviour and managerial thinking. Among those included are early theorists such as Henri Fayol, Frederick W. Taylor and Max Weber; classical writers such as Alfred D. Writers on Organizations: The Second Omnibus Edition Derek Pugh, David Hickson, 2018-04-27 This title was first published in 2000. A collection of the thoughts of many great writers on organizations. These writers are from a variety of different backgrounds. Some draw upon their expertise as practising managers, some on their knowledge of rational and local government administration and some on the findings of their research work. All have attempted to draw together information and distil theories about how organizations function and how they should be managed. The volume seeks to provide a general overview of the field and does not provide critical analysis of the views provided. Writers on Organizations D. S.
