Sentencing and the Legitimacy of Trial Justice Ralph Henham,2013-03-01 This book discusses the under researched relationship between sentencing and the legitimacy of punishment It argues that there is an increasing gap between what is perceived as legitimate punishment and the sentencing decisions of the criminal courts Drawing on a wide variety of empirical research evidence the book explores how sentencing could be developed within a more socially inclusive framework for the delivery of trial justice In the international context such developments are directly relevant to the future role of the International Criminal Court especially its ability to deliver more coherent and inclusive trial outcomes that contribute to social reconstruction Similarly in the national context these issues have a vital role to play in helping to re position trial justice as a credible cornerstone of criminal justice governance where social diversity persists In so doing the book should help policy makers in appreciating the likely implications for criminal trials of mainstreaming restorative forms of justice Sentencing and the Legitimacy of Trial Justice firmly ties the issue of legitimacy to the relevant context for delivering justice It suggests a need to develop the tools and methods for achieving this and offers some novel solutions to this complex problem This book will be a valuable resource for graduate students academics practitioners and policy makers in the field of criminal justice as well as scholars interested in socio legal and cross disciplinary approaches to the analysis of criminal process and sentencing and the development of theory and comparative methodology in this area

Criminal Justice John R. Fuller, 2013 Criminal Justice Mainstream and Crosscurrents uses a distinctive crosscurrents theme to teach students about the complexities of the criminal justice system and help them think critically about critical issues

Miscarriages of Justice in Canada Kathryn M. Campbell, 2018-06-12 Innocent people are regularly convicted of crimes they did not commit A number of systemic factors have been found to contribute to wrongful convictions including eyewitness misidentification false confessions informant testimony official misconduct and faulty forensic evidence In Miscarriages of Justice in Canada Kathryn M Campbell offers an extensive overview of wrongful convictions bringing together current sociological criminological and legal research as well as current case law examples For the first time information on all known and suspected cases of wrongful conviction in Canada is included and interspersed with discussions of how wrongful convictions happen how existing remedies to rectify them are inadequate and how those who have been victimized by these errors are rarely compensated Campbell reveals that the causes of wrongful convictions are in fact avoidable and that those in the criminal justice system must exercise greater vigilance and openness to the possibility of error if the problem of wrongful conviction is to be resolved

Crime, Police, and Penal Policy Clive Emsley, 2007-07-05 How did ideas about crime and criminals change in Europe from around 1750 to 1940 How did European states respond to these changes with the development of police and penal institutions Clive Emsley addresses these questions using recent research on the history of crime and criminal justice in Europe Exploring the subject chronologically he addresses the forms of offending the changing interpretations and understandings of that offending at both elite and popular levels and how the emerging nation states of the period responded to criminal activity by the development of police forces and the refinement of forms of punishment The book focuses on the comparative nature in which different states studied each other and their institutions and the ways in which different reformers exchanged ideas and investigated policing and penal experiments in other countries It also explores the theoretical issues underpinning recent research emphasising that the changes in ideas on crime and criminals were neither linear nor circular and demonstrating clearly that many ideas hailed as new by contemporary politicians and in current debate on crime and its solutions have a very long and illustrious history

Law and Revolution Harold J. Berman, 2006-09-30 Berman's masterwork narrates the interaction of evolution and revolution in the development of Western law This volume explores two successive transformations of the Western legal tradition under the impact of the 16th century German Reformation and the 17th century English Revolution with particular emphasis on Lutheran and Calvinist influences

Prisons and Punishment in America Michael O'Hear, 2018-09-14 Synthesizing recent scholarship in law and the social sciences on criminal sentencing and corrections this book provides a thorough balanced and accessible survey of the major policy issues in these fields of persistent public interest and political debate After three decades of explosive growth the American incarceration rate is impracticably high Drawing on leading research in law and the social sciences this book covers a range of topics in sentencing and corrections in America in a manner that is accessible and engaging for general readers Tackling high level issues in the criminal justice system it outlines the scale and causes of mass incarceration in the United States To complement this it details the roles and relative power of judges and prosecutors the severity of punishment for drug offenders and white collar offenders the abuse of prisoners and the enforcement of prisoner rights and repeat offending by released prisoners Readers will better understand the challenges that come with a high incarceration rate such as the management of mental illness in the criminal justice system the management of sex offenders and the impact of parental incarceration on children Looking ahead this timely resource also considers prospects for reducing current incarceration levels the availability and effectiveness of alternatives to incarceration and the future of capital punishment

Past Law, Present Histories Diane Kirkby, 2012-09-01 This collection brings methods and questions from humanities law and social sciences disciplines to examine different instances of lawmaking Contributors explore the problematic of past law in present historical analysis across indigenous Australia and New Zealand from post Franco Spain to current international law and maritime regulation from settler colonial humanitarian debates to efforts to end cruelty to children and animals They highlight problems both national and international in their implication From different disciplines and theoretical positions they illustrate the diverse and complex study of law's history
