Stitched-up Stephanie Vermeulen,2004 This feisty and inspiring treatise blames the destructive cultural myth of female self sacrifice for the desire for breast implants the conservative insistence on family values and the general cultural attitude that prevents women from supporting one another s accomplishments Using everything from psychological analysis to clever fairy tale parodies called fairer tales the author promotes an ideology for women that is neither bra burning feminism nor passive conservatism but rather a belief in self development Welcoming the Other N. Susan Laehn,Thomas R.

Laehn,2021-02-15 The modern turn in political philosophy established the ontological primacy of the ego reducing the community to a mere assemblage of individuals and led to the repudiation of natural duties in favor of inherent individual rights The modern project culminated in the work of Friedrich Nietzsche whose emphasis on radical individuation left human beings both liberated and exiled Individuals were free to create and to recreate themselves anew but they were simultaneously uprooted from any larger community Indeed the very possibility of shared meaning let alone shared political life was called into question This volume consists of essays addressing the efforts of philosophers artists caretakers and perhaps most importantly teachers to reestablish a foundation for political life in postmodernity The origins of these efforts are diverse and their modes are varied Individuals seek communion with the divine either with or through others they pursue friendship among strangers and they search for meaningful relationships in both the classroom and the public square

Reflecting the various means by which individuals seek communion with others and with the transcendent divine Other the essays contained in this volume explore the modes through which individuals forge relationships with others in an age of isolation Women, Wellness, and the Media Margaret C. Wiley,Barbara Barnett,2009-05-27 As a former nurse and someone who now teaches Women s Studies I have long been interested in the politics of health care Today most Americans would agree that our health care system is broken We pay more for health care than any nation in the world yet in 2007 the World Health Organization ranked us as 37th in quality of health care Forty six million Americans are now without health insurance What is happening here And just where are all these dollars going In Women Wellness and the Media thirteen scholars from a wide range of disciplines examine the relationship between media stereotypes and women s health They look at several images of women the perfect mom the straight bikini clad sixteen year old blond who has been air brushed to perfection the wild black Jezebel who struts her stuff and the shriveled up menopausal crone The writers point out that these images are making millions of dollars for all sorts of businesses ranging from the pharmaceutical industry to women's magazines. Scholars have long noted that stereotypes disempower women. In Women, Wellness, and the Media, we see how these stereotypes actually harm women's health while turning millions in corporate profits.

Waste Jessica Rizzo, 2020. If at its most elemental, the theater is an art form of human bodies in space, what becomes of the theater as suicide capitalism pushes our world into a posthuman age? Waste: Capitalism and the Dissolution of the Human in Twentieth Century Theater traces the twentieth-century theater's movement from dramaturgies of efficiency to dramaturgies of waste, beginning with the observation that the most salient feature of the human is her ability to be ashamed of herself, to experience herself as excess, the waster, and the waste of the world. By examining theatrical representations of capitalism, war, climate change, and the permanent refugee crisis, Waste traces the ways in which these human-driven events signal a tendency toward prodigality that terminates with self-destruction. Defying its promise of abundance for all, capitalism poisons all relationships with competition and fear. The desire to dominate in war is revealed to be the desire to obliterate the self in collective conflagration. The refugee crisis raises the urgent question of our responsibility to the other, but the climate crisis renders the question of anthropocentric obligations moot. Waste proposes that the theater is the form best suited to confronting the human's perverse relationship to its finitude. Everything about the theater is suffused with existential shame, with an acute awareness of its provisionality. Unlike the dominant narrative of the human, which is bound up with a fantasy of infinite growth, the theater is not deluded about its nature, origins, and destiny. At its best, the theater gathers artist and audience in one space to die together for a little while, to consciously waste and not spend their time. JESSICA RIZZO is an
