Innovation Employment And Growth Policy Issues In The Eu And The Us:

Innovation, Employment and Growth Policy Issues in the EU and the US Paul J.J. Welfens, John T.

Addison, 2009-07-21 Economic development has cyclical dynamics and long term dynamics the latter are typically related to demographical changes innovation and long term institutional changes in open economies Financial markets that means mainly capital markets and labor markets are affected in OECD countries both by innovations and institutional reforms As regards demographics ageing is a typical challenge on both sides of the Atlantic and pension reforms in industrialized countries have placed greater emphasis on capital markets than in previous decades Innovation dynamics certainly are also quite important for all high wage OECD countries The Lisbon Agenda has put particular emphasis on more growth higher innovation dynamics and better exploitation of the advantages of a digitally networked society Traditionally the US has a lead in global innovations and the US policy certainly has contributed to the American technological leadership There still is a per capita income gap in favor of the US and the US labor market situation also looks relatively favorable but in the ve years since 2001 employment growth in the euro area was higher than that of the US The euro area is however a rather heterogeneous set of countries which differ in terms of institutions attitudes and reform progress and everywhere governments are aware that there have to be reforms not least in the context of globalization which bring a more complex and dynamic spatial structure of value added

Proceedings of the International Conference Theory and Applications in the Knowledge Economy Eduardo Tomé, 2016-07-08

Foreword TAKE 2016 is a dream that came true In about six months a group of friends and colleagues put together in an upcoming and very dynamic university a conference with 9 streams 3 keynotes and 3 special sessions 60 papers presented 6 posters and around 80 participants from 20 countries This is awesome I would like to deeply thank Aveiro University the GOVCOPP research centre the conference committee the keynote speakers the special session convenors the stream leaders the reviewers the authors and the administrative people for all their work and support I want to have two special words one for Blazenka Knezevic without whom the website would not have been possible the other for Gaby Neumann for work in these Proceedings Scientifically TAKE seems to be as important and new and far reaching We don't have shortage of models regarding the knowledge economy but we decisively lack to explore the relation between theory and practice TAKE is a step in exploring that difference We know that Exact sciences find the best answers and social sciences give the best questions J C Spender and we also know that Knowledge Management is more preached by scholars than done by practitioners Aino Kianto We assume the first idea and try to overcome the second Hopefully TAKE 2016 will be a great success Thank you for everything

A European Strategy for Jobs and Growth Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union

Committee,2006-03-16 This report by the European Union Committee examines the progress of the European Union in initiating a strategy for jobs and growth across the Community as a whole The background to this report stems from the Spring European Council meeting in 2000 in Lisbon and the launch of an economic reform agenda The Committee observes that since the Lisbon Agenda little progress has been made and the performance of many of the larger European economies has been poor The Committee has noted that certain worrying signs of protectionist behaviour have developed especially regarding barriers of cross border mergers The EU has recognized this weak performance and the Agenda was relaunched in 2005 with a greater focus on the key economic priorities of more growth and jobs Also all Member States are now required to produce an annual National Action Plan highlighting the policies being pursued to improve economic growth and increase employment The Committee sets out a number of recommendations to further push forward the priorities of growth and jobs including that the Commission should seek to complete the progress towards an internal market that Member States should influence one another in the development of good practice through statistical comparison of their economic progress and agree on quantifiable targets that the format of the National Action Plans should include not only the successes but where countries are underperforming that the Agenda be given a higher public profile The New Economy and Economic Growth in Europe and the US David B. Audretsch,Paul J.J. Welfens,2013-06-29

The strong productivity growth of the US and Scandinavian countries in Europe in the 1990s has raised the question whether the ICT sector information and communication technology that is computers plus telecommunications plus digital services is the new driving engine of high growth in leading OECD countries Judging by the empirical evidence for the US including a new study by McKinsey which gives mixed evidence it is still too early to clearly dismiss Robert G Gordon s hypothesis that the acceleration of US output growth is due regarding quality problems of price measurement exclusively due to cyclical factors and increased productivity growth in the computer sector The counter hypothesis is associated with research by Stiroh and others who argue that there are positive productivity spillover effects from ICT to other sectors Indeed it is not clear ex ante whether mainly the Old Economy or the so called New Economy stands to benefit most from high innovation rates and strong productivity shifts associated with the spreading of digital services Interestingly the increased economic role of the internet also contributes to the internationalization of the economy since more services have become tradable and growing import competition itself could stimulate productivity growth and thus contribute to higher growth If ICT plays a key role in the new economy there are important implications in the differential degree to which Germany and the US have implemented ICT Networked

Governance and Transatlantic Relations Gabriella Paar-Jakli,2014-04-29 In today s complex and interconnected world scholars of international relations seek to better understand challenges spurred by intensified global communication and interaction The complex connectedness of modern society and politics compels us to investigate the pattern of interconnections among actors who inhabit social and political spaces Gabriella Paar-Jakli s study aims to advance theory and practice by examining the networks used by specialists in North America and Europe to achieve their policy goals in the area of science and technology Her book suggests that to overcome policy problems transnationally three critical factors should be considered First as science and technology policy becomes increasingly critical to resolving global issues it should be regarded as an integral element of the foreign policy process Second as liberal international relations theory argues the increasing role of NGOs must be taken seriously alongside states as vital agents of policy reform Third as transatlantic relations remain center to maintaining the global order they must be reconsidered Paar Jakli assesses the role of digital networks as facilitators of regional cooperation Utilizing various techniques of social network analysis her research indicates an active and structurally discernible network in cyberspace among transatlantic organizations and demonstrates the role of virtual networks as facilitators of cooperative arrangements in transatlantic relations Paar Jakli's original research uses social network analysis to investigate transatlantic cooperation a new approach that will be noteworthy to network and transatlantic scholars as well as policymakers

Economic Policy Issues for the Next Decade Karl Aiginger, G. Hutschenreiter, 2013-03-09 There are several reasons why it has become important to rethink economic policy Out of the European perspective it is the new currency the enlargement towards Central and Eastern European countries the sluggish growth and the end of productivity convergence towards the USA and the insufficient creation of employment From the transatlantic perspective increasing differences in the economic policy and the potential rise of conflicts between Europe and the USA for example in trade competition and health issues are important The current volume touches most but not all of these topics It starts with the overview by Joseph Stiglitz on policy issues Then macroeconomics policy is discussed followed by the problem of an ageing society and European enlargement Differences between Europe and the USA are large in taxation and in the role of public finance The relative competitiveness of countries as well as of Europe will be decided by investments into new technologies and progression towards the Science Based Economy In the final section the role of economists in shaping the economic agenda and giving policy advice is discussed
