Novels Richard J. Hill,2016-04-22 Innovative and accessibly written Picturing Scotland examines the genesis and production of the first author approved illustrations for Sir Walter Scott's Waverley novels in Scotland Consulting numerous neglected primary sources Richard J Hill demonstrates that Scott usually seen as disinterested in the mechanics of publishing actually was at the forefront of one of the most innovative publishing and printing trends the illustrated novel Hill examines the historical precedents influences and innovations behind the creation of the illustrated editions tracking Scott's personal interaction with the mechanics of the printing and illustration process as well as Scott's opinions on visual representations of literary scenes Of particular interest is Scott's relationships with William Allan and Alexander Nasmyth two important early nineteenth century Scottish artists As the first illustrators of the Waverley novels their work provided a template for one of the more lucrative publishing phenomena Informed by meticulous close readings of Scott's novels and augmented by a bibliographic catalogue of illustrations Picturing Scotland is an important contribution to Scott studies the development of the illustrated novel and publishing history Walter Scott and the Historical Imagination David Brown,2016-07-22 First published in 1979 This study explores the main critical issues that arise out of a modern reading of Scott's work and treats the major novels in detail It tackles the questions of Scott's place in literary history and his problems in pioneering the historical novel As well as examining the greater novels of the Scottish series the author also deals with the relation between historical fiction and reality with reference to the Waverley Novels and Scott's own attitude to history Also discussed are some of the possible reasons for Scott's failure to depict conflicts in his contemporary society This book would be of interest

Household Alexander Smith, 1866 Methods of Study in Natural History Louis Agassiz, 1866 London and the Making of Provincial Literature Joseph Rezek, 2015-08-28 In the early nineteenth century London publishers dominated the transatlantic book trade No one felt this more keenly than authors from Ireland Scotland and the United States who struggled to establish their own national literary traditions while publishing in the English metropolis Authors such as Maria Edgeworth Sydney Owenson Walter Scott Washington Irving and James Fenimore Cooper devised a range of strategies to transcend the national rivalries of the literary field By writing prefaces and footnotes addressed to a foreign audience revising texts specifically for London markets and celebrating national particularity provincial authors appealed to English readers with idealistic stories of cross cultural communion From within the messy and uneven marketplace for books Joseph Rezek argues provincial authors sought to exalt and purify literary exchange In so doing they helped shape the Romantic era belief that literature inhabits an autonomous sphere in society London and the Making of Provincial Literature tells an ambitious story about the mutual entanglement of the history of books and the history of aesthetics in the first three decades of the nineteenth century Situated between local literary scenes and a distant cultural capital enterprising provincial authors and publishers worked to maximize success in London and to burnish their reputations and build their industry at home Examining the production of books and the circulation of material texts between London and the provincial centers of Dublin Edinburgh and Philadelphia Rezek claims that the publishing vortex of London inspired a dynamic array of economic and aesthetic practices that shaped an era in literary history
