 Paved for Us Camika Royal, 2022-07-19 Winner of the 2024 AERA Outstanding Book Award Not Paved for Us chronicles a fifty year period in Philadelphia education and offers a critical look at how school reform efforts do and do not transform outcomes for Black students and educators This illuminating book offers an extensive expert analysis of a school system that bears the legacy hallmarks and consequences that lie at the intersection of race and education Urban education scholar Camika Royal deftly analyzes decades of efforts aimed at improving school performance within the School District of Philadelphia SDP in a brisk survey spanning every SDP superintendency from the 1960s through 2017 Royal interrogates the history of education and educational reforms recounting city state and federal interventions She covers SDP s connections with the Common School Movement and the advent of the Philadelphia Freedom Schools and she addresses federal policy shifts from school desegregation to the No Child Left Behind and Every Student Succeeds Acts Her survey provides sociopolitical context and rich groundwork for a nuanced examination of why many large urban districts struggle to implement reforms with fidelity and in ways that advance Black students academically and holistically In a bracing critique Royal bears witness to the ways in which positive public school reform has been obstructed through racism and racial capitalism but also via liberal ideals neoliberal practices and austerity tactics Royal shows how despite the well intended actions of larger entities the weight of school reform here as in other large urban districts has been borne by educators striving to meet the extensive needs of their students families and communities with only the slightest material financial and human resources She draws on the experiences of Black educators and community members and documents their contributions Not Paved for Us highlights the experiences of Black educators as they navigate the racial and cultural politics of urban school reform Ultimately Royal names dissects and challenges the presence of racism in school reform policies and practices while calling for an antiracist future Life by Algorithms Catherine Besteman, Hugh Gusterson, 2019-05-23 Essays on the downsides dysfunctions and dangers of automated decision making An excellent survey of the algorithmically managed life Choice The phone systems that businesses use to screen calls The link between student standardized test scores and public schools access to resources The algorithms that regulate patient diagnoses and reimbursements to doctors The impenetrable corporate bureaucracy that can drive customers in need of help up the wall or drive them to suicide The storage sorting and analysis of massive amounts of information have enabled the automation of decision making at an unprecedented level Meanwhile computers have offered a model of cognition that increasingly shapes our approach to the world The proliferation of roboprocesses is the result as editors Catherine Besteman and Hugh Gusterson observe in this rich and wide ranging volume which features contributions from a distinguished cast of scholars in anthropology communications international studies and political science Though automatic processes are designed to be engines of rational systems the stories in Life by Algorithms reveal how they can in fact produce absurd inflexible or even dangerous outcomes Joining the call for algorithmic transparency the contributors bring exceptional sensitivity to everyday sociality into their critique to better understand how the perils of modern technology affect finance medicine education housing the workplace food production public space and emotions not as separate problems but as linked manifestations of a deeper defect in the fundamental ordering of our society

The Machine Stops E M Forster's 1909 science fiction story tells the tale of a human society collapsing when the technology upon which it has become dependent fails Think of this volume as The Machine Starts a collection of unsettling ethnographic accounts of the rise of algorithmic governance A necessary and sobering call to arms

The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008 citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools

Washington Post What kids need from grown ups but aren t getting an impassioned plea for educators and parents to put down the worksheets and flash cards ditch the tired craft projects yes you Thanksgiving Handprint Turkey and exotic vocabulary lessons and double down on one simple word play NPR The New York Times bestseller that provides a bold challenge to the conventional wisdom about early childhood with a pragmatic program to encourage parents and teachers to rethink how and where young children learn best by taking the child s eye view of the learning environment To a four year old watching bulldozers at a construction site or chasing butterflies in flight the world is awash with promise Little children come into the world hardwired to learn in virtually any setting and about any matter Yet in today s preschool and kindergarten classrooms learning has been reduced to scripted lessons and suspect metrics that too often undervalue a child s intelligence while overtaxing the child s growing brain These mismatched expectations wreak havoc on the family parents fear that if they choose the wrong program their child won t get into the right college But Yale early childhood expert Erika Christakis says our fears are wildly misplaced Our anxiety about preparing and safeguarding our children s future seems to have reached a fever pitch at a time when ironically science gives us more certainty than ever before that young children are exceptionally strong thinkers In her pathbreaking book Christakis explains what it s like to be a young child in America today in a world designed by and for adults where we have confused schooling with learning She offers real life solutions to real life issues with nuance and direction that takes us far beyond the usual prescriptions for fewer tests more play She looks at children s use of language their artistic expressions the way their imaginations grow and how they build deep emotional bonds to stretch the boundaries of their small worlds Rather than clutter their worlds with more and more stuff sometimes the wisest course for us is to learn how to get out of their way Christakis s message is energizing and reassuring young children are inherently powerful and they and their parents will flourish when we learn new ways of restoring the vital early learning environment to one that is best suited to the littlest learners This bold and pragmatic challenge to the conventional wisdom peels back the mystery of childhood revealing a place that s rich with possibility

Towards Optimal Granularity Joe Lorkowski, Vladik Kreinovich, 2017-07-01 This book addresses an intriguing question are our decisions rational It explains seemingly irrational human decision making behavior by taking into account our limited ability to process information It also shows with several examples that optimization under granularity restriction leads to observed human decision making Drawing on the Nobel prize winning studies by Kahneman and Tversky researchers have found many examples of seemingly irrational decisions e.g. we overestimate the probability of rare events Our explanation is that since human abilities to process information are limited we operate not with the exact values of relevant quantities but with granules that contain these values We show that optimization under such granularity indeed leads to observed human behavior In particular for the first time we explain the mysterious empirical dependence of betting odds on actual probabilities This book can be recommended to all students interested in human decision making to researchers whose work involves human decisions and to practitioners who design and employ systems involving human decision making so that they can better utilize our ability to make decisions under uncertainty One Size Does Not Fit All Indrek S.

Wichman, 2017-12-31 Academic success requires talent ability which is not equally distributed among students Almost all American undergraduates hail from K-12 public schools based on the theory that everyone is academically educable This has led to the one size fits all system which has underserved the less academically inclined students a majority of the K-12 population The theory that every student is academically educable an unverified axiom of the current K-12 educational paradigm has not been subjected to serious scrutiny Consequently little progress has been made toward curricular revision except tweaks of the existing system currently the world's most expensive However testing classroom performance teacher assessment advances in human biology and most importantly family and community experience suggest that it is possible to determine who is suited for an academic or a technical education Once that hurdle is crossed the question of how to best educate train prepare America s non academic youth can be thoughtfully practically and compassionately addressed
