Who Locked The Boys Out?

Once I saw some boys
Outside a gate, They had come to school

There was a knock upon my door
...In...the light...was she Elderhood Katynka Z. Martínez,Mérida M. Rúa,2022-11-20 It is widely recognized that Latinos are a sizable and diverse population and that we are a young demographic The median age of non Hispanic white Americans is 58 whereas for Latinos it is 30 Footnote1 Perhaps this partially explains the dearth of attention afforded to the topic of aging Latinos by academic scholarship and the mainstream media This special issue compellingly alerts us to the reality that there is a growing aging Latino population about which we know very little and that deserves our attention I am grateful to Katynka Mart nez and M rida R a for curating The Art of Latina and Latino Elderhood since this special issue responds to this significant gap in our knowledge with an exciting set of academic articles and creative contributions that challenges not only our assumptions about Latinos and aging but also our thinking on the types of contributions we include in our journal pages Katynka and M rida make the case that the story of Latino elderhood is best conveyed through a truly multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary approach bringing together public policy humanistic social sciences and artistic interventions So for the first time Latino Studies is pleased to feature a novel in progress a photo essay dial go an artist s monologue and a dialogue among actors alongside more traditional academic articles I think you will agree that this issue before you beautifully conveys why the subject of Latinos and aging should concern all of us and that it will powerfully spur other researchers and artists to take up the invitation to continue to share new evocative stories about the pleasures difficulties and complexities of Latinx later life
