The Nominative & Accusative and their counterparts Kristin Davidse, Béatrice Lamiroy, 2002-07-25 This volume is devoted to the central cases relating to the basic oppositions between subject object and agent patient viz nominative and accusative as well as their counterparts such as ergative and absolutive It aims at contributing to the typological investigation of these cases by providing descriptive studies of ten different languages not only Romance and Germanic languages but also Polish and Basque as well as Cora Warrwa and Ewe These studies show that the formal devices used to mark the two nuclear cases may be quite diverse including non overt and configurational coding but that all the languages studied crucially display a subject object asymmetry even languages such as Basque and Ewe for which this had been questioned One of the most striking subthemes to emerge from this collection is the complexity of the object zone both with regard to formal and functional diversity Various studies in the volume also contribute reflections couched mainly in broadly cognitive functional terms about the semantic function of the subject object contrast and why it is so central across languages
