University English for Academic Purposes in China Xiaofei Rao, 2018-07-07 This book uses an in depth phenomenological interview approach to explain the generational characteristics of today's Chinese university youths and the critical dispositions they believe indispensable in acquiring English as an academic language in and outside school settings. By presenting the authentic voices of the recruited participants the book clarifies how English for academic purposes EAP as an emerging global phenomenon and a research informed practice enables and empowers them for conscious self transformation and critical awareness development through language study. The book also explores issues arising in the fields of general English language teaching as well as traditional and critical EAP and discusses university English language learners learning needs and rights. The book further promotes a dynamic and transformative University EAP pedagogy of particularity practicality and possibility moving from the oppression of language education to its liberation and the increasing critical consciousness among the present and future university youths in a time of great social changes. Middle-west

Publications American and Canadian Committees on Modern Languages, 1929 Modern Language Instruction in Canada Canadian Committee on Modern Languages, 1928 Let Them Have Books Gaby Chapman, 2010-11-10 Reading is the most important skill children can learn and provides a lifetime of benefits. But most children do not become proficient or lifelong readers. In Let Them Have Books author Gaby Chapman offers a formula for delivering the gift of avid reading to every child. Using research and her experience as a teacher Chapman presents a detailed discussion of the reading habits of children. She covers why children should read why they don't and what we can do to ensure that all children become enthusiastic readers. Let Them Have Books outlines a new model for reading education. This model recognizes that the process of learning to read begins at birth and that different brains learn to read in different ways. This reading education centers on creating a dynamic reading culture in schools one that encourages students to choose the books they read and
