

An Analysis of the Story Graduation by Maya Angelou

Anticipation

Imagine how it would feel to have someone of another race speak at your graduation and put your race down. This is the story of "Graduation" written by Maya Angelou. In this story we see how a young black girl awaits with great pride and anticipation her graduation day. When the day finally arrives, her dreams and expectations are shadowed by the speech that Mr. Donleavy, a white man, gave to the graduating class of 1940. At the end of the story we see how the class valedictorian, Henry Reed comes back with encouraging words that help the entire audience become alive and feel like they were on top again. Maya Angelou used a very important literary element in this story called tone.

Tone is the attitude the speaker has towards themselves, their subjects, and their audience. In this case the speaker in this story is the young black girl. In the beginning of the story the black girl speaks with pride and self-confidence. She thinks very highly of herself when she states, "...I was going to be lovely. A walking model of all the various styles of fine hand sewing and it didn't worry me that I was only twelve years old and merely graduating from the eighth grade..." The joy in her voice is felt when she stated "...my work alone had awarded me to a top place and I was going to be one of the first called in the graduating ceremonies. No absences, nor tardiness, and my academic work was among the best of the year..." Unfortunately pride and joy were not the only tone used by the speaker.

In the middle of the story we see the girl angry and disappointed at the outcome of her graduation. As I described in the introduction, Mr. Donleavy addressed her graduating class with continuous remarks about the white class. He went on to say that "...the white kids were going to have a chance to become Galileo's and Madame Curies and Edison's and Gauguins ..." The young girl couldn't believe what she was hearing. "Graduation, hush-hush magic time of frills and gifts and congratulations and diploma, was finished for me before my name was called. The accomplishments was nothing. Donleavy had exposed us ..." In this sentence we can actually feel the frustration and anger she felt. At the end of the story we see how her mood changed from being angry to feeling proud of herself and her race once again.

This was the outcome of a poem read by her class valedictorian, Henry Reed. "The word of Patrick Henry had made such an impression on me that I had been able to stretch myself tall and trembling and, I know not what course others may take but as for me, give me liberty or give me death ..." In this sentence the young girl feels proud to be black and to be part of the graduating class of 1940. She put aside all the awful remarks made by Mr. Donleavy and rejoiced with the encouraging words given by Henry Reed. She was proud of her race and proud to be graduating due to her fu

Learning to Write as a Hostile Act for Latino Students Raul E. Ybarra, 2004 Cultural differences play a part in communication breakdowns between students and teachers and only a complete understanding of the model that English instructors use when teaching writing gives us an insight into the reasons why This book observes and analyzes the communication patterns of Latino students in an English course at the college level closely observing the interaction between Latino students and the teacher as well as between Latino students and other student groups in the class Learning to Write as a Hostile Act for Latino Students concludes that cultural differences and the resulting miscommunications significantly contribute to the negative impressions Latino students have about the writing process and English courses Understanding these differences is crucial to improving the teaching of writing to Latino and other minority students A New Juvenile Justice System Nancy E. Dowd, 2015-05-15 A New Juvenile Justice System aims at nothing less than a complete reform of the existing system not minor change or even significant overhaul but the replacement of the existing system with a different vision The authors in this volume academics activists researchers and those who serve in the existing system all respond in this collection to the question of what the system should be Uniformly they agree that an ideal system should be centered around the principle of child well being and the goal of helping kids to achieve productive lives as citizens and members of their communities Rather than the existing system with its punitive destructive undermining effect and uneven application by race and gender these authors envision a system responsive to the needs of youth as well as to the community's legitimate need for public safety How they ask can the ideals of equality freedom liberty and self determination transform the system How can we improve the odds that children who have been labeled as delinquent can make successful transitions to adulthood And how can we create a system that relies on proven family focused interventions and creates opportunities for positive youth development Drawing upon interdisciplinary work as well as on the ground programs and experience the authors sketch out the broad parameters of such a system Providing the principles goals and concrete means to achieve them this volume imagines using our resources wisely and well to invest in all children and their potential to contribute and thrive in our society Young, Gifted, and Black Theresa Perry, Claude Steele, 2012-09-11 An important and powerful book that radically reframes the debates swirling around the academic achievement of African American students Boston Review The solutions offered by each essay are creative inspirational and good old common sense Los Angeles Times In 3 separate but allied essays African American scholars Theresa Perry Claude Steele and Asa Hilliard examine the alleged achievement gap between Black and white students Each author addresses how the unique social and cultural position Black students occupy in a society which often devalues and stereotypes African American identity fundamentally shapes students experience of school and sets up unique obstacles Young Gifted and Black provides an understanding of how these forces work opening the door to practical powerful methods for promoting high achievement at all levels In the first piece Theresa Perry argues that the dilemmas African American students face are rooted in the experience of race and ethnicity in America making the task of achievement distinctive and difficult Claude Steele follows up with stunningly clear empirical psychological evidence that when Black students believe they are being judged as members of a stereotyped group rather than as individuals they do worse on tests Finally Asa Hilliard argues against a variety of false theories and misguided views of African American achievement sharing examples of real schools programs and teachers around the country that allow African American students to achieve at high levels Now more than ever Young Gifted and Black is an eye opening work that has the power to not only change how we talk and think about African American student achievement but how we view the African American experience as a whole

Coming Full Circle Wanda Lloyd, 2020-02-04 Inspiring reading for aspiring journalists and students of civil rights Kirkus Reviews Wanda Smalls Lloyd's Coming Full Circle From Jim Crow to Journalism with a foreword by best selling author Tina McElroy Ansa is the memoir of an African American woman who grew up privileged and educated in the restricted culture of the American South in the 1950s 1960s Her path was shaped by segregated social community and educational systems religious and home training a strong cultural foundation and early leadership opportunities Despite Jim Crow laws that affected where she lived how she was educated and what civil rights she would be denied Lloyd grew up to realize her childhood dream of working as a professional journalist In fact she would eventually hold some of the nation's highest ranking newspaper editorial positions and become one of the first African American women to be the top editor of a mainstream daily newspaper Along the way she helped her newspapers and other media organizations understand how the lack of newsroom and staff diversity interfered with perceptions of accuracy and balance for their audiences Her memoir is thus a window on the intersection of race gender culture and the media's role in our uniquely American experiment in democracy How Lloyd excelled in a profession where high ranking African American women were rare is a memorable story that will educate entertain and inspire Coming Full Circle is a self reflective exploration of the author's life journey from growing up in coastal Savannah Georgia to editing roles at seven daily newspapers around the country and circling back to her retirement in Savannah where she now teaches journalism to a new generation
