Making Evidence Based Psychological Treatments Work With Older Adults:

Making Evidence-Based Psychological Treatments Work with Older Adults Forrest Ray Scogin, Avani Shah, 2015-05-14 In this new release by geropsychology scholars Forrest Scogin and Avani Shah researchers and clinicians come together in each chapter to discuss the prevalent psychological disorders that afflict this burgeoning population Each chapter focuses on one of the major presenting problems anxiety insomnia depression memory function and behavioral disturbances with researchers identifying successful evidence based treatments EBTs and clinicians discussing how their specific expertise and flexibility maximized EBT fidelity while tailoring the EBT to the special needs and conditions of their older clients Written for clinicians who specialize in psychotherapy and counseling with older adults this timely book will also appeal to practitioners who work with elders in assisted living facilities or in home settings The final chapter of the book is devoted to family caregivers who also experience psychological symptoms in caring for an older parent or other relative

Psychological Treatment of Older Adults Lee Hyer, 2013-10-17 This is one of the best mental health and aging books I have ever read It is one that I will turn to often in my teaching of doctoral students and in my work with older adults One of the phenomenal aspects of this book is the research reviews which are in depth and broad in their scope It is clear that Lee Hyer is an exceptional scholar clinician and geropsychologist Peter A Lichtenberg PhD Drawing from current research and clinical practice this text espouses a unique interdisciplinary approach to the assessment and treatment of psychosocial impairment in older adults This approach called Watch and Wait is grounded in a whole person model of care rather than one that addresses symptoms or syndromes in isolation This model advocates relationship building prevention psychoeducation multipronged interventions for comorbid problems and communication It does so in the context of a multidisciplinary health care team the patient and family The model encompasses five core factors of psychosocial impairment in older adults depression anxiety cognitive deficits adjustment or life problems and health issues Considered together they provide an integrated understanding of the older adult that is more likely than single disorder models to facilitate successful outcomes for common psychosocial difficulties that occur in later life The book describes in depth the unique components and complex interactive influences of these five factors as they apply to older adults seeking mental health treatment A cornerstone of the author's approach is treatment based on stringent care based assessment and thorough monitoring of empirically supported interventions Each factor is considered individually from its empirically supported basis as well as its interaction with the other factors Distinct treatment modules are isolated for each factor and assembled to provide the optimal pathway for clinical treatment The text also addresses the unique difficulties of diagnosing the aging population the pitfalls of existing treatments and the need for brain based models for care Key Features Advocates for integrative interdisciplinary care and primary care involvement for the older adult Emphasizes core components of care depression anxiety cognition pain sleep health issues adjustment in the community Demonstrates how a single problem approach for older adults with psychiatric problems is not effective or efficient care Espouses a Watch and Wait paradigm of care based on person centered diagnosis and careful monitoring of treatment Translates and integrates current research findings with clarity Covers use of SSRIs and other medications suicide subsyndromal states issues involving cost of care for the older patient among other topics Plentiful case examples

Psychological Assessment and Treatment of Older Adults Nancy A. Pachana, Victor Molinari, Larry W. Thompson, Dolores Gallagher-Thompson, 2021-11-30 Learn about the key issues when assessing and treating older adults with mental health problems Expert guidance through the key topics Highlights the best assessment and treatment practices Addresses diversity ethical and health system issues Full of real life case examples Resources in the appendix to test your knowledge More about the book Mental health practitioners are encountering an ever growing number of older adults and so an up to date and comprehensive text addressing the special considerations that arise in the psychological assessment and treatment of this population is vital This accessible handbook does just that by introducing the key topics that psychologists and other health professionals face when working with older adults Each area is introduced and then the special considerations for older adults are explored including specific ethical and healthcare system issues The use of case examples brings the topics further to life An important feature of the book is the interweaving of diversity issues culture race sexuality etc within the text to lend an inclusive contemporary insight into these important practice components The Pikes Peak Geropsychology Knowledge and Skill Assessment Tool is included in an appendix so readers can test their knowledge which will be helpful for those aiming for board certification in geropsychology ABGERO This an ideal text for mental health professionals transitioning to work with older clients for those wanting to improve their knowledge for their regular practice and for trainees or young clinicians just starting out

The Oxford Handbook of Clinical Geropsychology Nancy A. Pachana, Ken Laidlaw, 2014-11-07 Throughout the world the population of older adults continues to grow The rise in geriatric populations has seen an increase in research on clinical diagnostic assessment and treatment issues aimed at this population Clinical geropsychologists have increased their interest both in providing mental health services as well as developing approaches to improve quality of life for all older adults The Oxford Handbook of Clinical Geropsychology is a landmark publication in this field providing broad and authoritative coverage of the research and practice issues in clinical geropsychology today as well as innovations expanding the field's horizons Comprising chapters from the foremost scholars in clinical geropsychology from around the world the handbook captures the global proliferation of activity in this field In addition to core sections on topics such as sources of psychological distress assessment diagnosis and intervention the handbook includes valuable chapters devoted to methodological issues such as longitudinal studies and meta analyses in the field as well as new and emerging issues such as technological innovations and social media use in older populations Each chapter offers a review of the most pertinent international literature outlining current issues as well as important cultural implications and key practice issues where relevant and identifying possibilities for future research and policy applications

The book is essential to all psychology researchers practitioners educators and students with an interest in the mental health of older adults In addition health professionals including psychiatrists social workers mental health nurses and trainee geriatric mental health workers will find this a invaluable resource Older adults comprise a growing percentage of the population worldwide Clinical psychologists with an interest in older populations have increased the amount of research and applied knowledge about effectively improving mental health later in life and this book captures that information on an international level The book addresses how to diagnose assess and treat mental illness in older persons as well as ways to improve quality of life in all older persons It has a great breadth of coverage of the area including chapters spanning how research is conducted to how new technologies such as virtual reality and social media are used with older people to improve mental health The book would appeal to all psychology researchers practitioners educators and students with an interest in the mental health of older adults It would also appeal to other health professionals including psychiatrists social workers and mental health nurses who work with older people It is a valuable resource for trainee geriatric mental health workers because it highlights key readings and important practice implications in the field

Psychological Assessment and Therapy with Older Adults Bob G. Knight, Nancy A. Pachana, 2015-01-08 Due to improvements in health and healthcare the elderly population is expanding rapidly within the developed world However more and more elderly people require some form of psychological support at some point in their later years The types of problems faced by this population are quite distinct and often more complex than those faced by younger adults and throw up many new challenges in both assessment and treatment Though there are books available that focus individually on assessment or treatment few have combined the two into a single framework Within this book Knight and Pachana argue that psychological assessment needs to be more tightly integrated with therapy especially with older adult clients Using the Contextual Adult Lifespan Theory for Adapting Psychotherapy CALTAP as a framework for applying our knowledge about developmental social contextual and cohort generational factors that influence age differences in response to psychological assessment and therapy they present an integrated framework for psychological assessment and therapy with older adults This text is valuable for practitioners looking for a solid theoretical basis for the practice of assessment and therapy with older clients students in graduate courses looking at later lifespan issues and educators looking for material to enhance generalist psychotherapy courses with a lifespan perspective
