Irelan, 2014-06-12 This is a collection of new essays opening introspective space for further exploration into constructions of We the People during the mid to late nineteenth century It does so by interrogating intersections of pro enslavement and anti enslavement expressions of cultural nationalism investigating assorted expressions of partisanship within dramatic literature and live performance broadly defined and by probing effects of armed conflict on notions of nation theatre performance and other markers of communal identity Enacting Nationhood is distinctive in that the essays collected here call into question many widely held assumptions about the intricate theatrical past of the period under review This said the essays in this collection are certainly not to be taken as a comprehensive set of viewpoints Rather they are to be understood as an accompanying voice in a continuing discussion regarding an ever shifting aesthetic contract between cultural nationalism and dramatic literature and live performance broadly defined from 1855 1899 Performing Objects and Theatrical Things Marlis Schweitzer, Joanne Zerdy, 2014-08-14 This book rethinks historical and contemporary theatre performance and cultural events by scrutinizing and theorizing the objects and things that activate stages venues environments and archives Focus On: 100 Most Popular Tony Award Winners Wikipedia contributors, Edward MacDowell's European Piano Music Paul Bertagnolli, 2024-09-10 Edward MacDowell's European Piano Music is a critical study of the piano music that MacDowell composed during his European sojourn 1876-1888 steeped in reception history and with a special emphasis of programmaticism The book expands current knowledge of MacDowell's childhood in four of the chapters based on his previously uninvestigated sheet music collection thereby achieving a better balance among the stages of MacDowell's life than is evident in most books of the life and works variety Prolific contemporaneous music criticism meticulously preserved in MacDowell's scrapbooks is likewise undervalued in the MacDowell literature but it furnishes penetrating observations about the expressive and programmatic content of numerous compositions especially as it was revealed to critics when MacDowell performed his own works Lastly the book offers explanations for why MacDowell immersed himself in European culture for decades and then at a crucial juncture in his career embraced diverse American heritages and worked toward a conception of a pluralistic music that was American in a creative sense The book's content and methodology would appeal most directly to specialists within the broad fields of musicology and music theory particularly within American art music and its composers nineteenth century music program music reception history and piano literature

Theory for Theatre Studies: Light Dean Wilcox, 2024-06-27 What properties of light can be manipulated for aesthetic effect? What role does the perception of the audience play in how stage information is received and processed? How do changes in technology affect methods or approaches to design and practice? This book is designed to introduce key ideas about light and to generate questions and perspectives that will encourage readers to explore light in the theatre more fully in their own critical and creative practices. Examining the theories behind stage lighting practice to help students learn to analyse the aesthetic and critical impacts of light in performance, this book traces the development of lighting practice by focusing on important shifts in technology and aesthetics from the classical period to the modern era. Central to this study are ideas developed by New Stagecraft theorists and designers Adolphe Appia, Edward Gordon Craig and Robert Edmond Jones. Case studies include semiotic approaches to Loie Fuller's combination of light movement and costume, Robert Wilson's Einstein on the Beach and Tadashi Suzuki's The Trojan Women. Further case studies including the installation work of James Turrell and Refik Anadol, the Winston Salem Light Project and David Byrne's American Utopia examine the use of light in theatrical and non-theatrical spaces by focusing on phenomenology, community engagement and the evolution of lighting technology. A companion website features links to images, chapter summaries, questions and further resources for study.

Poel, Granville Barker, Guthrie, Wanamaker Cary M. Mazer, 2013-12-04 All four figures in this volume have been canonized as central to stage centred Shakespearean scholarship and stage practice From William Poel's reproductions of early modern stages in the late nineteenth century to Sam Wanamaker's reconstruction of the Globe on London's South Bank they all viewed Shakespeare's plays as being enmeshed in the social and historical dynamics of theatremaking and theatregoing The volume considers how their attempts to recapture early modern performance conditions can be considered progressive
