Grief And Loss How To Deal With A New Reality:

Grief and Loss Lars Wilhelmsson, 2013-09-20 Recovering from losing a loved one is a slow process and the importance of allowing oneself to grieve and of getting support and help from others is treated at length with suggestions on methods of helping to cope with the pain and loss and to find comfort in others and God and His promises The need to eventually allow oneself to heal and find hope and even joy again is seen as a realistic possibility by the grace of God A chapter is devoted to the loss of a child as it is a uniquely painful experience There is a discussion how working with families who have lost children is the single most difficult thing to watch a family go through and seems to be the most difficult thing for a family to endure which is why there is a full chapter focusing on the impact and unique circumstances surrounding this tremendous loss It does not make any difference how brave or strong we may be or think we can be we must call grief and sorrow by their right names in order to comprehend what is happening and again remember that God tells us that there is a time to mourn We should not by any reflection or semantics minimize what we are going through when death removes a loved one The fact remains someone we loved is deceased That someone is gone from our lives We are human and miss deeply that person This is one of the reasons why death is called an enemy by God Losing a loved one reminds us of how fragile we all are In the end life isn't about money success power happiness etc it is about relationships relationships with fellow human beings and a relationship with God This book is intended to contribute comfort peace hope and healing in some measure to all who open its pages

Grief is a Human Experience, Not a Diagnosis That Needs Fixing: Clinicians Must Modify Their Thinking and Ways of Grief Therapy Nicole Garrard-Black, Ph.D., 2024-09-02 SUMMARY The book Grief is a Human Experience Not a Diagnosis That Needs Fixing Clinicians Must Modify Their Thinking and Ways of Grief Therapy challenges traditional approaches to grief therapy by advocating for a more human centered perspective The book argues that grief should not be viewed as a pathological condition requiring a clinical fix but rather as a natural and integral part of the human experience The author emphasizes that traditional models often pathologize grief leading to approaches that may inadvertently undermine the authentic experiences of those who are grieving Instead the book promotes a shift towards understanding grief as a personal journey that varies greatly among individuals It argues for the necessity of adapting therapeutic practices to better align with the diverse ways people experience and cope with loss Through a series of case studies theoretical discussions and practical recommendations the book urges clinicians to rethink their methods and frameworks It suggests that by embracing a more empathetic and individualized approach therapists can offer more meaningful support that acknowledges and respects the unique nature of each person's grief Ultimately the book calls for a transformative change in how grief is approached in clinical settings advocating for practices that validate and support the personal grieving process rather than attempting to fix it

The Deceased-focused Approach to Grief Frank E. Eyetsemitan, 2022-04-22 Conventional grief models focus on the bereaved including actions that they need to take to get back to normalcy following the death of a loved one This book suggests that it might be helpful in the grieving process to focus on the deceased instead Research points to the benefits of altruistic acts and thoughts including improvements in mood Altruistic acts and thoughts also could be extended to the deceased who in death has experienced a loss as well By taking on the perspective of and being empathic toward the deceased a response shift occurs that could result in mood improvement and happiness in the bereaved The book provides guidelines for this alternative grief model in the death of a child of a teenager of a spouse partner and of a sibling and in multiple deaths and in persistent grief experience among others Based on motivational principles a workbook is also provided for monitoring progress in coping with bereavement Comprehension questions and additional readings are provided in each chapter to help the reader further explore the topic at hand This book would be useful in a course on death dying and bereavement to healthcare practitioners bereavement counsellors and to scholars in death dying and bereavement across different fields including psychology sociology social work public health and religion Most grief models focus on the bereaved including actions the survivor needs to take to get back to normalcy after a loss However in the grieving process it might be helpful if attention is shifted to the deceased instead The bereaved by doing things she or he perceives as pleasing to the deceased might receive healing and satisfaction in return Lisa Farino 2010 notes that there is no shortage of research pointing to the beneficial effects of focusing on others In a study by Carolyn Schwartz and Rabbi Meir Sendor 1999 lay people with a chronic disease were trained to provide compassionate unconditional regard to others who had the same illness The results showed that the providers of care and compassion reported better quality of life than the recipients of care and compassion even though both givers and receivers had the same disease The givers showed profound improvements in confidence self awareness self esteem depression and in role functioning The researchers emphasized the beneficial importance of response shift the shifting of internal standards values and concept definition of health and well being in dealing with one's own adversity Farino 2010 notes that this research is profound because in western culture the belief is that feeling happy tends to be getting something for yourself There are biological origins to the notion that it's better to give than to receive Using the functional magnetic resonance imaging fMRI researchers were able to demonstrate a connection between brain activity and giving People who gave voluntarily and also for a good cause experienced more activation of the part of brain that controls for pleasure and happiness e.g. Harbaugh Mayr Burghart 2007 Studies show that about 7% of the US population experience complicated or prolonged grief disorder e.g. Kersting et al 2011 This is persistent grief that does not go away and many parents tend to experience this after the loss of a child In their study Catherine Rogers and colleagues 2008 found bereaved parents reporting more depressive symptoms poorer well being and more health problems after a child's loss almost 20 years later Survivors usually show concern about how their deceased loved ones felt prior to death and if happy or not in the afterlife e.g. Eyetsemitan Eggleston 2002 A study reported respondents used emotion discrete terms such as sad happy or angry to describe the faces of deceased persons The researchers suggested that the perceived emotional state of a deceased loved one could impact on the survivor's mourning trajectory e.g. Eyetsemitan Eggleston 2002 The bereavement model of placing focus on the deceased instead provides an alternative to existing bereavement models in helping the survivor to cope with a loss

The Craft of the Secure Base Coach Jakob van Wielink, Klaartje van Gasteren, Marnix Reijmerink, Anne Verbokkem-Oerlemans, Leo Wilhelm, Riet Fiddelaers-Jaspers, 2024-10-01 Within The Craft of the Secure Base Coach the authors take a new and combined approach to the professions of coaching and counselling to provide a guide for professionals wanting to better assist individuals and teams in periods of transition Based on up to date scientific insights and grounded in concepts from attachment theory this book explores the themes of life transition based on the authors own Transition Cycle model and how professional coaches and counsellors can become a secure base for their clients during sometimes traumatic and transitional periods in their lives Consisting of two parts the first part of this book focuses on how to become a secure base coach using case studies to illustrate how readers can affect real change with their clients when providing humanity and proximity to the professional relationship The second part provides a more practical guide to working with individuals and groups and how to apply the themes of the Transition Cycle to help with guiding transition This will be a valuable resource for coaches counsellors and therapists as well as those currently in training It will also be of use to leaders wishing to learn more about their coaching skills as well as social workers and grief counsellors therapists

Handbook of Coping Moshe Zeidner, Norman S. Endler, 1995-12-12 how a man rallies to life's challenges and weathers its storms tells everything of who he is and all that he is likely to become St Augustine It has long been understood that how a person adjusts to life stresses is a major component of his or her ability to lead a fulfilling life Yet it wasn't until the 1960s that coping became a discrete topic of psychological inquiry Since then coping has risen to a position of prominence in the modern psychological discourse especially within the personality cognitive and behavioral spheres and within the past decade alone many important discoveries have been made about its mechanisms and functioning and its role in ongoing psychological and physical health and well being A book whose time has come at last the Handbook of Coping is the first professional reference devoted exclusively to the psychology of coping Reporting the observations and insights of nearly sixty leading authorities in stress and coping from a wide range of affiliations and schools of thought it brings readers the state of the art in coping theory research assessment and applications In orchestrating the book the editors have scrupulously avoided imposing any particular slant or point of view other than the need to foster greater eclecticism and cooperation between researchers and clinicians concerned with the phenomenon of coping The Handbook of Coping is divided into five overlapping parts the first of which serves to lay the conceptual foundations of all that follows It traces the history of coping from its origins in psychoanalytic theories of unconscious defense mechanisms and provides an exhaustive review of the latest conceptualizations models and constructs The following section provides an in depth exploration of current research methodology measurement and assessment tools Part Three explores key facets of coping in a broad range of specific domains including everyday hassles chronic disease cataclysmic events and many others The penultimate section focuses on individual differences Among important topics covered here are coping styles and dispositions the role of family social support and education and coping behaviors across the life span The final section Part Five is devoted to current applications Clinical parameters are defined and a number of specific interventions are described as are proven techniques for helping clients to improve their coping skills A comprehensive guide to contemporary coping theory research and applications the Handbook of Coping is an indispensable resource for practitioners researchers students and educators in psychology the health sciences and epidemiology Of related interest EGO DEFENSES Theory and Measurement Edited by Hope R Conte and Robert Plutchik This book explores the nature and manifestations of defense mechanisms and traces ego defense theory and research from Freud's initial conceptualization through recent work in object relations theory and other psychoanalytically oriented approaches It provides clinical guidelines for diagnosing assessing and dealing with defenses reviews empirical research techniques and indicates their value in development and in psychotherapy This volume should be of value to theoreticians clinicians and researchers interested in finding appropriate tools for measurement of defense mechanisms 1994 SOCIAL SUPPORT An Interactional View Edited by Barbara R Sarason Irwin G Sarason and Gregory R Pierce The study of social support and its relationship to personality health and adjustment is one of the fastest growing areas of research and application in psychology This book contains integrative surveys of clinical and field studies experimental investigations and life span explorations It approaches social support as an important facet of interpersonal relationships and shows its undesirable as well as its positive features 1990 0 471 60624 3 528 pp Textbook of Palliative Care Roderick Duncan MacLeod,Lieve Van den Block,2025-02-25 This second edition provides the most up to date information on all aspects of palliative care including recent developments including COVID 19 global policies service provision symptom management professional aspects organization of services palliative care for specific populations palliative care emergencies ethical issues in palliative care research in palliative care public health approaches and financial aspects of care This new Textbook of Palliative Care remains a unique comprehensive clinically relevant and state of the art book aimed at advancing palliative care as a science a clinical practice and as an art Palliative care has been part of healthcare for over fifty years but it still needs to explained to many Healthcare education and training has been slow to recognize the vital importance of ensuring that all practitioners have a good understanding of what is involved in the care of people with serious or advanced illnesses and their families However the science of palliative care is advancing and this new edition will contribute to a better understanding This new edition offers 86 updated or new chapters out of 108 written by experts in their given fields providing up to date information on a wide range of topics of relevance to those providing care towards the end of life no matter what the disease may be We present a global perspective on contemporary and classic issues in palliative care with authors from a wide range of disciplines involved in this essential aspect of care The Textbook includes sections addressing aspects such as symptom management and care provision organization of care in different settings care in specific disease groups palliative care emergencies ethics public health approaches and research in palliative care This new Textbook will be of value to practitioners in all disciplines and professions where the care of people approaching death is important specialists as well as non specialists in any setting where people with serious advanced illnesses are residing It is also an important resource for researchers policy and decision makers at national or regional levels Neither the science nor the art of palliative care will stand still so the Editors and contributors from all over the world aim to keep this Textbook updated so that the reader can find new evidence and approaches to care From Dream to Action Tatiana Valério,Ana Clara S. Bastos,Luca Tateo,2021-01-01 The ubiquitous presence of imaginative work points at its importance among the higher mental functions This collective volume discusses both the social relevance of imagination that cannot be reduced to an inter individual feature and the cultural historical conditions of imagining The authors develop different theoretical and empirical works in which imagining planning anticipating remembering and acting are put in relation with crucial moments of human existence as early as birth and even after death The proposal of this volume emerged during a kitchen seminar session at the III International Seminar of Cultural Psychology in Salvador da Bahia Brazil 2017 The debate revolved around the imaginative capability of human beings and the possibilities to investigate this phenomenon in a new key The awareness that an innovative theoretical and empirical contribution was needed to the understanding of imaginative phenomena in everyday life led to the proposal of the book From Dream to Action Imagination and Im Possible Futures. The book aims to talk to different audiences: psychologists, sociologists, artists, teachers, and healthcare professionals, addressing a variety of life experiences such as imagining alternative futures when facing a terminal illness, an adoption, a transplant waiting list, or the choice to give up your musical instrument. It mobilizes multiple dimensions of human psyche, from the basic emotions to the more sophisticated higher mental functions. The constant effort is to understand the psychological and sociocultural dynamics of each event and to contribute to the understanding of human imagining in the area of semiotic cultural psychology, dialoguing with contributions from all the human and social sciences.
