

LBS 118 – EXAM #3 REVIEW TOPICS

Here are the main topics to look over for this exam. Please keep in mind that we have changed some of the topics that we are teaching in this course and your exam may look very different from some previous year's exams, so if you find older copies to look at, keep this in mind. Do NOT assume your exam will look exactly like any of these practice exams. They are only meant to give you an IDEA of topics that you will see on the exam.

You will be better prepared for the exam if you have practiced all the graphing techniques and you know the steps well. You might want to try some of the curve sketching problems from the packet given in class. We did not finish going over the whole thing, but answers to all of the graphs will be posted on D2L, so you should practice and then check your answers! The more practice you get the better off you will be. If you don't know what you are doing and have not practiced, you could run out of time!!!

1. SKETCHING a GRAPH – Be able to find EVERYTHING that is listed on the CURVE SKETCHING PACKET which was given out in class and is also on D2L. If the sketching problem on your exam does not have a slant asymptote, then there will be a separate problem on the exam asking you to find a slant asymptote, so make sure you know how to find them using long division.
 - The derivatives will already be simplified for you on THIS problem, but you will have other problems on the exam where you will need to find derivatives and simplify.
 2. OPTIMIZATION PROBLEMS – You will have one similar to one of the problems on the handout I gave you in class or the ones on these practice exams or the ones from the homework assignment or WebAssign.
 3. DIFFERENTIALS – Review the examples we do in class where we approximate the propagated error and percent error in using a measurement to calculate something. Also review the problem where we approximate the value of a square root. You might have to do something similar to one of these things on your exam.
 4. Rolle's Theorem / Mean Value Theorem – Know the requirements of each theorem, what they say in plain English, and how to use them. You might have to state the theorems in your own words.
 5. GIVEN a GRAPH be able to LABEL all of the following things:
 - RELATIVE (LOCAL) EXTREMA
 - ABSOLUTE (global) EXTREMA
 - CRITICAL POINTS
 - INFLECTION POINTS
 - Be able to give the SIGNS of the first derivative / second derivative in each section of the graph.
