Gertler,Sebastian Martinez,Patrick Premand,Laura B. Rawlings,Christel M. J. Vermeersch,2011-06-13 This book offers an accessible introduction to the topic of impact evaluation and its practice in development While the book is geared principally towards development practitioners and policymakers designing prospective impact evaluations we trust that it will be a valuable resource for students and others interested in using impact evaluation Prospective impact evaluations should be used selectively to assess whether or not a program has achieved its intended results or to test alternatives for achieving those results We consider that more and better impact evaluation will help strengthen the evidence base for development policies and programs around the world If governments and development practitioners can make policy decisions based on evidence including evidence generated through impact evaluation our hope is that development resources will be spent more effectively and ultimately have a greater impact on reducing poverty and improving people s lives The three chapters in this handbook provide a non technical introduction to impact evaluations including Why Evaluate in Chapter 1 How to Evaluate in Chapter 2 and How to Implement Impact Evaluations in Chapter 3 These elements are the basic tools needed in order to successfully carry out an impact evaluation From a methodological standpoint our approach to impact evaluation is largely pragmatic we think that the most appropriate methods should be identified to fit the operational context and not the other way around This is best achieved at the outset of the program through the design of prospective impact evaluation that can be built into the project s implementation We argue that gaining consensus between key stakeholders and identifying an evaluation design that fits the political and operational context is as important as the method itself We also believe strongly that impact evaluations should be upfront about their limitations and caveats Finally we strongly encourage policymakers and program managers to consider impact evaluations in a logical framework that clearly sets out the causal pathways by which the program works to produce outputs and influence final outcomes and to combine impact evaluations with monitoring and selected complementary evaluation approach to gain a full picture of performance This book builds on a core set of teaching materials developed for the Turning Promises to Evidence workshops organized by the office of the Chief Economist for Human Development HDNCE in partnership with regional units and the Development Economics Research Group DECRG at the World Bank RealWorld Evaluation Michael Bamberger,Linda Mabry,2019-07-31 RealWorld Evaluation Working Under Budget Time Data and Political Constraints addresses the challenges of conducting program evaluations in real world contexts where evaluators and their clients face budget and time constraints The book is organized around the authors seven step model that has been tested in workshops and practice environments to help the evaluation implementers and managers make the best choices when faced with real world constraints The Third Edition includes a new chapter on gender equality and women s empowerment and discussion of digital technology and data science Research Methods and Methodologies in Education Robert Coe,Michael Waring,Larry V Hedges,James Arthur,2017-03-20 Best selling all encompassing textbook for research methods in education

Water and Security in Central Asia Virpi Stucki, Kai Wegerich, Muhammad Mizanur Rahaman, Olli Varis, 2016-04-08 Examining the water development and security linkages in Central Asia can feel a bit like solving a Rubik's cube The Rubik's cube starts to usually find structure and the different pieces find their places when its solver adopts a systematic approach Still solving the whole cube takes time and perseverance This is also the case with water and security in Central Asia as demonstrated by the chapters in this book In the case of water and security in Central Asia there are many faces including not only the Central Asian states but also the neighbouring countries and other players of global geopolitics stickers such as policies practices causes and impacts and colours such as the different stakeholders ranging from the micro and meso levels to the macro level Understanding all these or getting clarity on the nexus can seem extremely challenging Even though none of the chapters alone answers the question of what constitutes water and security in Central Asia each of them gives thoughtful ideas and information on the complexity of the issue This book was published as Global Education Policy, Impact Evaluations, and Alternatives D. Brent Edwards Jr., 2018-04-10 This book contributes to how we conceptualize and investigate the role and influence of knowledge production by international organizations within the field of global education reform After elaborating on what it means to approach the intersection of these issues from a political economy perspective the book develops a focus on knowledge production broadly to examine specifically the production of impact evaluations which have come to be seen by many as the most credible form of policy relevant knowledge Moreover it not only unpacks the methodological technical political and organizational challenges in the production of impact evaluations but also details an approach to critically understanding and examining the role that impact evaluations once produced play within the political economy of global education reform more generally Finally this book demonstrates the application of this approach in relation to a global education policy from El Salvador and reflects on the implications of this case for alternative ways forward methodologically and otherwise
