Essentials of Landscape Ecology Kimberly A. With,2019-07-01 Human activity during the Anthropocene has transformed landscapes worldwide on a scale that rivals or exceeds even the largest of natural forces Landscape ecology has emerged as a science to investigate the interactions between natural and anthropogenic landscapes and ecological processes across a wide range of scales and systems from the effects of habitat or resource distributions on the individual movements gene flow and population dynamics of plants and animals to the human alteration of landscapes affecting the structure of biological communities and the functioning of entire ecosystems to the sustainable management of natural resources and the ecosystem goods and services upon which society depends This novel and comprehensive text presents the principles theory methods and applications of landscape ecology in an engaging and accessible format that is supplemented by numerous examples and case studies from a variety of systems including freshwater and marine scapes

Measuring Landscapes Andre Botequilha Leitao,Joseph Miller,Jack Ahern,Kevin McGarigal,2012-09-26 This practical handbook bridges the gap between those scientists who study landscapes and the planners and conservationists who must then decide how best to preserve and build environmentally sound habitats Until now only a small portion of the relevant science has influenced the decision making arenas where the future of our landscapes is debated and decided The authors explain specific tools and concepts to measure a landscape s structure form and change over time Metrics studied include patch richness class area proportion patch number and density mean patch size shape radius of gyration contagion edge contrast nearest neighbor distance and proximity These measures will help planners and conservationists make better land use decisions for the future

Protecting Life on Earth Michael Paul Marchetti, Peter B. Moyle, 2010-09-01 Written to be accessible to any college level reader Protecting Life on Earth offers a non technical yet comprehensive introduction to the growing field of conservation science This multifaceted exploration of our current biodiversity crisis delivers vivid examples throughout including features on some of nature s most compelling wildlife Beginning with a brief introduction to environmental history the text introduces the central concepts of evolution and ecology and covers several major issues related to the conservation of biodiversity including extinction climate change sustainability conservation law and invasive species It also touches on adjacent disciplines such as economics and sociology as they relate to conservation The text even includes practical advice on the decisions we make every day how we spend our money where we live and work what we eat and buy Throughout Protecting Life on Earth underscores the ways in which our future is tied to that of Earth s threatened species and demonstrates exactly why conservation is so vitally important for us all

The Atlas of Global Conservation Jonathan M. Hoekstra, 2010 The Atlas of Global Conservation is a premier resource for everyone concerned about the natural world Top scientists at The Nature Conservancy have joined forces to create this guide to the state of the planet today With over 80 full color maps and other graphics contextualized with clear informative discussion this book offers an unprecedented view of trends across the world s terrestrial marine and freshwater environments Interspersed throughout essays by noted international authorities point the way forward in confronting some of our greatest conservation challenges Publisher information

Managing for Healthy Ecosystems David J. Rapport, Bill L. Lasley, Dennis E. Rolston, N. Ole Nielsen, Calvin O. Qualset, Ardeshir B. Damania, 2002-10-29 One of the critical issues of our time is the dwindling capacity of the planet to provide life support for a large and growing human population Based on a symposium on ecosystem health Managing for Healthy Ecosystems identifies key issues that must be resolved if there is to be progress in this complex area such as Evolving methods for regional ecosystem health assessment employing complex adaptive systems coupled with adaptive technologies to permit accurate determination of changes in regional and global environments Issues and methods for assessing monitoring and managing diversity and its impact on human health in the context of climate change agroecosystems restoration of forests politics culture and tradition Leading thinkers in the field provide a coherent synthesis and a benchmark for the practice of this emerging field worldwide The more than 100 peer reviewed papers are grouped into three major parts The first Emerging Concepts explores the diverse meanings of ecosystem health within ecological socio economic and human health perspectives and the linkages to related concepts such as ecological integrity sustainable development and ecological footprints The second part Issues and Methods introduces methods for assessing and monitoring ecosystem health including strategies for gaining political and stakeholder input and support for science based ecosystem management The final part Case Studies reports experiences of interdisciplinary teams grappling with specific issues in a variety of aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems

The ^ATiny and the Fragmented S. Rebecca Martin,Stephanie M. Langin-Hooper,2018-10-16 The Tiny and the Fragmented demands a reconsideration of the social and contextual nature of miniaturization fragmentation and incompleteness making the case that it was because of rather than in spite of their small or partial state that these objects were valued parts of the personal and social worlds they inhabited

The Long River Home Larry R. Smith,2009 Larry Smith s third book of fiction is set in his homeland of Ohio s rural and industrial Appalachia along the Ohio River It is a story of four generations of family moving from the Civil War times to the 1950 s in the Panhandle area of the Ohio River Valley Fathers and sons live with and work through deep silences to some kind of understanding

Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell,Ingrid Herlin,Richard Stiles,2011-02-20 What have cultural anthropologists historical geographers landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project carried out under the auspices of ECLAS the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse

Ecology in Action Fred D. Singer,2016-03-10 Taking a fresh approach to integrating key concepts and research processes this undergraduate textbook encourages students to develop an understanding of how ecologists raise and answer real world questions Four unique chapters describe the development and evolution of different research programs in each of ecology s core areas showing students that research is undertaken by real people who are profoundly influenced by their social and political environments Beginning with a case study to capture student interest each chapter emphasizes the linkage between observations ideas questions hypotheses predictions results and conclusions Discussion questions integrated within the text encourage active participation and a range of end of chapter questions reinforce knowledge and encourage application of analytical and critical thinking skills to real ecological questions Students are asked to analyze and interpret real data with support from online tutorials demonstrating the R programming language for statistical analysis

Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over 80 archaeologists from four continents create a benchmark volume of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework

Conservation Biology for All Navjot S. Sodhi, Paul R. Ehrlich, 2010-01-07 Conservation Biology for All provides cutting edge but basic conservation science to a global readership A series of authoritative chapters have been written by the top names in conservation biology with the principal aim of disseminating cutting edge conservation knowledge as widely as possible Important topics such as balancing conservation and human needs climate change conservation planning designing and analyzing conservation research ecosystem services endangered species management extinctions fire habitat loss and invasive species are covered Numerous textboxes describing additional relevant material or case studies are also included The global biodiversity crisis is now unstoppable what can be saved in the developing world will require an educated constituency in both the developing and developed world Habitat loss is particularly acute in developing countries which is of special concern because it tends to be these locations where the greatest species diversity and richest centres of endemism are to be found Sadly developing world conservation scientists have found it difficult to access an authoritative textbook which is particularly ironic since it is these countries where the potential benefits of knowledge application are greatest There is now an urgent need to educate the next generation of scientists in developing countries so that they are in a better position to protect their natural resources
