From Oceania to North America Indigenous peoples have created storytelling traditions of incredible depth and diversity. The term Indigenous storywork has come to encompass the sheer breadth of ways in which Indigenous storytelling serves as a historical record, as a form of teaching and learning, and as an expression of Indigenous culture and identity. But such traditions have too often been relegated to the realm of myth and legend, recorded as fragmented distortions or erased altogether. Decolonizing Research brings together Indigenous researchers and activists from Canada, Australia, and New Zealand to assert the unique value of Indigenous storywork as a focus of research and to develop methodologies that rectify the colonial attitudes inherent in much past and current scholarship. By bringing together their own Indigenous perspectives and by treating Indigenous storywork on its own terms, the contributors illuminate valuable new avenues for research and show how such reworked scholarship can contribute to the movement for Indigenous rights and self-determination.

Learning as Development Daniel A. Wagner, 2017-10-04. Learning is the foundation of the human experience. It begins at birth and never stops, a continuous and malleable link across life stages of human development. Disparities in learning access and outcomes around the world have deep consequences for income, social mobility, health, and well-being. For international development practitioners faced with today's unprecedented environmental and geopolitical pressures, learning should be viewed as a touchstone and target for those seeking to truly effect global change. This book traces the path of international development work from its pre-colonial origins to the emergence of economics as the dominant discipline in the field and lays out a new agenda for policymakers, researchers, and practitioners from early education through adulthood. Learning as Development is an attempt to rethink international education in a changing world.

Ideas That Changed Literacy Practices Dennis Sumara, Donna E. Alvermann, 2021-10-29. A 2022 SPE Outstanding Book Award Winner. How do ideas change practices and people? In Ideas That Changed Literacy Practices, 32 influential scholars in literacy education get personal about how they have worked on ideas and how those ideas have worked on them. Together, the essays offer never-before-revealed personal histories of the authors published writing about ideas that have shaped the field of literacy education. As a collection, the essays highlight some of the major themes that have guided and changed literacy practices over the last few decades. They also offer a rare glimpse into the complex ways histories of research emerge alongside personal and political influences on policy and practice. The volume includes an introductory chapter by Sumara and Alvermann in which they detail the processes they used in creating a context for the significance of this work. They begin with the premise that most literacy scholars rarely, if ever, reveal their personal and intellectual investments in ideas that have animated their research and other scholarly endeavors. That this observation rang true for all of the contributors was evidenced in their responses to the invitation For example some replied by saying this was the most exciting project they had engaged in because it required reflection on what motivated them to write the requested 3 500 word essay others mentioned they were looking forward to reading what their peers would share Ideas That Changed Literacy Practices is a unique collection of autobiographical essays that situates literacy learning and teaching in a rich context of personal and professional knowledge that highlights and celebrates the vibrant complexities of the field of literacy education It is a unique and valuable resource for researchers and educators whether in K 12 or higher education Perfect for courses such as Introduction to Literacy Research Literacy Research and Methods Language Literacy and Culture Literacy Policy and Practice Narrative Research Interpretive Inquiry Research Methods in Education Foundations of Literacy Education Research Methods in Language and Literacy Popular Culture in Literacy Classrooms New and Digital Literacies History of Literacy Practices Educational Philosophy Reading and Language Arts Critical Theory Poststructuralism Digital Media Education Creative Writing Politics of Literacy
