Restorative Practice at

Work Lesley Parkinson, 2023-08-31 Restorative practice is emerging in healthcare settings and systems as a highly effective means of improving relationships and enabling positive change. It consists of a set of theories, principles, skills, and processes that shape our thinking around the way we interact with others. When restorative practice is adopted consistently within and between teams, it becomes the way we do things round here: a set of restorative practice habits that we all recognise, use, and refer to. Restorative Practice at Work identifies a set of six complementary habits which will help to change and improve everyday communications, conversations, and accountability in healthcare. These habits demonstrate how restorative practice can help to improve day-to-day communications in the form of behaviour, language, and conversations, ease some of the daily challenges faced in healthcare, and foster more effective working relationships, potentially leading to improvements in patient care and patient safety. They are: Navigating the Mountain, Looking beyond challenging behaviour, Recognising Needs, Noticing and responding to needs and unmet needs, Engaging Brains and Behaviours, Informing our responses to outward behaviours, Remembering the Relational Window, Solving problems together, Running Circle Meetings. An alternative meeting process, Drawing on Restorative Enquiry, Processing incidents and problems. Lesley firmly believes that restorative practice habits can ease the current pressures on the health service by enabling better relationships, improved communication, and a focus on positive mental health. It can also be part of key solutions: staff engagement and retention, team cohesion, patient safety, and care culture change and improvement. The book offers practical and engaging takeaways to help you get started with restorative practice and includes reflective learning opportunities and transferrable lessons supported by evidence from case studies and contributions from experienced healthcare professionals. The aim of Restorative Practice at Work is to make a notable positive difference to your daily workplace experience, whether you are a public-facing receptionist, member of a clinical team, administrator, manager, senior leader, cleaner, or consultant, or indeed if you have any other role in healthcare. This book will challenge and support your knowledge, understanding, and thinking around restorative practice as a workplace philosophy in healthcare. Suitable for NHS leaders, managers, clinicians, and staff, and those in other healthcare settings such as researchers, academics, HR professionals, and educators.
