Latino Metropolis Globalization And Community:

Latino Metropolis Victor M. Valle, Rodolfo D. Torres, 2000 Los Angeles scratch the surface of the city's image as a rich mosaic of multinational cultures and a grittier truth emerges its huge shimmering economy was built on the backs of largely Latino immigrants and still depends on them This book exposes the underside of the development and restructuring that have turned Los Angeles into a global city and in doing so it reveals the ways in which ideas about ethnicity Latino identity itself are implicated and elaborated in the process A penetrating analysis of the social economic cultural and political consequences of the growth of the Latino working class populations in Los Angeles Latino Metropolis is also a nuanced account of the complex links between political economy and the social construction of ethnicity Lifting examples from recent news stories political encounters and cultural events the authors demonstrate how narratives about Latinos are used to maintain the status quo particularly the existing power grid in the city In media representations of riots in the recasting and whitening of Mexican food as Spanish American cuisine in the community displacement that occurred as part of the development of the Staples Center in telling instances large and small we see how Los Angeles and its Latino population are mutually transforming And we see how an old Latino politics of racial identity is inevitably giving way to a new politics of class Combining political and economic insight with trenchant social and cultural analysis this work offers the clearest statement to date of how ethnicity and class intersect in defining racialized social relations in the contemporary metropolis urban literature into conversation focusing on the realities and urban experiences of Latinx living in major cities in the United States from the 1960s to the present The manuscript focuses on analyzing the works of Latinx authors who write about the city in which they were raised and how growing up in these environments shaped their lives their communities and their future Their fictional work helps us understand how the human and cultural tapestry of the Latinx community is inextricably connected to the spatial transformations taking place in many cities across the country most notably within the cities the authors write about in their narratives This is particularly true when the city is represented through a fictional narrative which is full of detailed information about the realities of structural inequality in education residential segregation urban cultural identity discrimination experiences of exile oppression urban desires integration and disillusionment The main purpose is to analyze the symbolic realities lived by the characters in order to understand how Latino families and communities are experiencing displacement under instituted neoliberal policies a process known as development and progress or gentrification

Mobile Urbanism Eugene McCann, Kevin Ward, 2011 How knowledge and power flow between places and impact cities worldwide

Remaking New York William Sites, 2003

El Paso Victor M. Ortíz-González, 2004 A grounded and instructive analysis of the ways globalization affects a border city Every marker of social difference can be easily interpreted in the fashionable language of borderlands and if so as Victor M Ortiz Gonzalez reveals the practical reality of the border region is often grossly misrepresented and its people woefully served He argues that amid the tantalizing abstractions generated by the sweeping reconfigurations of globalization people in cities like El Paso and Ciudad Juarez on the U S Mexican border are actually living the gritty realities of a new world order With descriptions of grassroots initiatives to confront the challenges and opportunities that NAFTA represents for the city El Paso challenges us to acknowledge and address the conceptual and sociopolitical tasks of a world in which abstract representations and nonlocal interests override concrete situations Ortiz Gonzalez also provides an indepth analysis of groups such as La Mujer Obrera Unite El Paso and the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and their attempts to give local residents and workers more autonomy and power Balancing ethnographic detail with precise theoretical insights El Paso offers a compelling case study and a stirring call to understand both the conceptual challenge and the social urgency of the effects of globalization in local settings

Latino Los Angeles Enrique C. Ochoa, Gilda L. Ochoa, 2005-11-01 As the twentieth first century begins Latinas/os represent 45 percent of the residents of Los Angeles County making them the largest racial ethnic group in the region At the same time the shift from manufacturing to a service based economy in the area has contributed to a decline in good paying jobs significantly impacting working class families These transformations have created a backlash that has included state propositions impacting Latinas/os and escalating anti immigrant rhetoric and Latina/os of all backgrounds are making their voices heard Until recently most research on Latinas/os in the U S has ignored historical and contemporary dynamics in Latin America just as scholars of Latin America have generally stopped their studies at the border This volume roots Los Angeles in the larger arena of globalization exploring the demographic changes that have transformed the Latino presence in LA from primarily Mexican origin to one that now includes peoples from throughout the hemisphere Bringing together scholars from a range of disciplines it combines historical perspectives with analyses of power and inequality to consider how Latinas/os are responding to exclusionary immigration labor and schooling practices and actively creating communities The contributors examine Latino Los Angeles in the context of historical economic and social factors that have shaped the region The first section provides contexts for understanding Latino migration with chapters focusing on such factors as U S economic and military domination labor and economic integration in the Americas and Los Angeles economic history The second section considers how various Latino groups have settled and formed communities and interacted with the existing Mexican origin populations showing how Zapotecs Salvadorans and other peoples are remaking urban demographics The final section on labor organizing and political activism examines the role of Latino immigrants in such actions as the janitors strike and also considers the contemporary role of students in political activism The volume concludes with an up to date compilation of contemporary scholarship on immigration the economy schools neighborhoods gender and activism as they relate to Central American and Mexican immigrants Reflecting a range of methodologies statistical historical ethnographic and participatory research this collection is relevant not only to ethnic studies but also to broader concerns in political science sociology history economics and urban studies In addition some chapters focus explicitly on women and gender issues are interwoven throughout the text Latino Los Angeles is an important work that contributes to contemporary scholarship on transnationalism as it reexamines the changing face of America's largest western metropolis

City Requiem, Calcutta Ananya Roy, 2003 Housing developments emerge amid the paddy fields on the fringes of Calcutta overflowing trains carry peasant women to informal urban labor markets in a daily commute against hunger land is settled and claimed in a complex choreography of squatting and evictions such Ananya Roy contends are the distinctive spaces of a communism for the new millennium where at a moment of liberalization the hegemony of poverty is quietly reproduced An ethnography of urban development in Calcutta Roy's book explores the dynamics of class and gender in the persistence of poverty City Requiem Calcutta emphasizes how gender itself is spatialized and how gender relations are negotiated within the geopolitics of modernity and through the everyday practices of territory Thus Roy shows how urban developmentalism in its populist guise reproduces the relations of masculinist patronage and in its entrepreneurial guise seeks to reclaim a bourgeois Calcutta gentlemanly in its nostalgias In doing so her work expands the field of poverty studies
