Lockheed, Atlanta, and the Struggle for Racial Integration Randall L. Patton, 2019 Lockheed Atlanta and the struggle for racial integration tells the story of business government equal employment opportunity policies by examining Georgia's Lockheed Aircraft 1950-1990. This book connects the local story of workplace desegregation to national narratives of civil rights reform, affirmative action, the role of government and public-private partnerships, and the business reaction to both state intervention in employment generally in the late 70s-1980s and to the emergence of black political power in the same time frame. Detecting and Classifying Low Probability of Intercept Radar Phillip E. Pace, 2009. This comprehensive book presents LPI radar design essentials including ambiguity analysis of LPI waveforms, FMCW radar and phase shift and frequency shift keying techniques. Moreover, you find details on new OTHR modulation schemes, noise radar and spatial multiple input multiple output MIMO systems. The book explores autonomous non-linear classification signal processing algorithms for identifying LPI modulations. It also demonstrates four intercept receiver signal processing techniques for LPI radar detection that helps you determine which time-frequency bi-frequency technique best suits any LPI modulation of interest. By any measure Hans Mark was a warrior of the Cold War. Born in Mannheim, Germany, in 1929, he spent his early childhood in Vienna before escaping the Nazi Anschluss in 1938 and eventually emigrating to the United States, settling in New York. He graduated from high school in 1947, went west to attend the University of California Berkeley, and later earned a PhD in physics from MIT. His work in nuclear engineering soon set him on a path that would be shaped by aeronautics, space exploration, and national defense. It was through advanced technology that Mark believed the United States could win the Cold War. In An Anxious Peace, Mark recounts in detail his life as a twentieth-century rocket man. Here is the inside story of one who in a career spanning more than six decades was on the technological front line from long-range bombers to the space shuttle. Along the way, Mark reveals many never-before-told stories from life at NASA and more. Readers will revel in learning the background behind the decision to place a plaque on Pioneer 10, a space probe that the NASA Ames Research Center designed to fly past the asteroid belt, Jupiter, and Saturn to collect data and images. Mark tells how he, Carl Sagan, and NASA insider John Naugle kept secret the addition of the now iconic 6x9 inch aluminum message from humanity.

until the probe had been launched To this day Mark is pushing for a manned mission to Mars One thing is sure Hans Mark has left a major impact on academic and scientific communities that will be felt for decades to come
