introduction to set theory and its relationship to logic and mathematics including philosophical issues is now part of Chapter 13 Chapter 15 is an introduction to modal logic and Kripke semantics concluding with a discussion of philosophical problems with any logical accommodation of modalities Instructors who do not wish to present proof methods will find chapters on truth trees for both sentential and first order logic and a presentation of trees for modal logic Special features of this text include presentations of the history of logic alternatives to traditional methods of conditional and indirect proof and a discussion of semantic problems with universal and existential instantiations Throughout the authors are sensitive to philosophical issues that arise from the relationship between ordinary language symbolic logic and justifications for the syntax and semantics of the various symbolic languages Discussions range from the justification of the truth table for the sentential rendering of if then statements to semantic and syntactic paradoxes including some troubling paradoxes that arise in ordinary language e g the so called hangman or surprise quiz paradox Logic and Philosophy includes ample material for a one semester or two semester course and provides a thorough preparation for more advanced logic courses Political

Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere, 2015-07-20 In Political Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere calls for revival of NCTE resolutions in the 1970s for teaching the critical reading listening viewing and thinking skills necessary to enable students to cope with the persuasive techniques in political statements advertising entertainment and news and explores the reasons these goals have been eclipsed in composition studies over recent decades Obstacles to those goals have included the emphasis in the profession on basic and first year writing at the expense of more advanced study in argumentative rhetoric and on the privileging of students personal writing over critical study of both academic and political discourse Lazere further argues that theorists who legitimately champion students pluralistic local communities sometimes fail to recognize that liberal education can enable students to grow beyond their home cultures to critical awareness of national and international politics Finally he argues that the fixation in recent composition studies on liberally inclined students and communities on the margins has eclipsed attention to the conservative conformity long prevalent in mainstream American society and education His proposals for curriculum and pedagogy seek to introduce students to a more highly informed cogent and open ended level of debate between the political left and right Political Communication in

Sub-Saharan Africa, Volume II Isaac Mhute, Esther Mavengano, 2024-12-02 This book is one of two volumes that examines the role of political communication media and language in transforming politics governance and democracy in sub Saharan Africa Interdisciplinary in approach this second volume analyses themes including political advertising and rhetoric activism populism fake news and political violence Combining theoretical work with individual case studies on countries including Tanzania South Africa Zimbabwe Nigeria and Ghana the book highlights the important connection between political communication and governance and the ways in which language reforms can help to overcome challenges related to public administration It will appeal to all those interested in public policy public administration governance and political
