Geospatial Technologies for Crops and Soils Tarik Mitran, Ram Swaroop Meena, Abhishek Chakraborty, 2020-10-24
The sustainable development of the agriculture sector is the only option to meet the demands of increased and economically viable production in a changing climate. This means there is a need to introduce the latest technologies to enhance production and also help policymakers make decisions for the future. Geospatial technologies tools such as remote sensing, geographical information systems, GIS, global positioning systems, GPS, and mobile web applications provide unique capabilities to analyze multi-scale, multi-temporal datasets and support decision making in sustainable agriculture development and natural resources management. Further, the availability of reliable and timely geospatial information on natural resources and environmental conditions is essential for sustainable agricultural development and food security. Since remote sensing solutions are fast, non-destructive, and have large spatial coverage, they can play a significant role in the identification, inventory, and mapping of land resources. Over the past four decades, remote sensing has proved to be a cost-effective and powerful tool to assess crop and soil properties in varying spatial and temporal scales using both visual and digital techniques. Satellite remote sensing coupled with GIS mobile app-based positional information has emerged as an efficient tool for optimizing input resources and minimizing cost of production and risk of biotic/abiotic factors. Nature to promote sustainable agriculture. This book comprehensively documents the applications of space-based technologies for crop and soil assessments for the sustainable development of agriculture. Haynes GM N-Cars Owners Workshop Manual, No. 1420 Bob Henderson, J.
