Handbook of Cross-cultural Psychology: Theory and method John W. Berry, Ype H. Poortinga, Janak Pandey, 1997 Part of a set containing the contributions of authors from a variety of nations cultures traditions and perspectives this volume offers an up to date assessment of theoretical developments and methodological issues in the rapidly evolving area of cross cultural psychology Individual Differences: From Neurobiological Bases to New Insight on Approach and Avoidance Behavior Daniela Laricchiuta, 2016-01-22 The superordinate division of emotions is distributed along a bipolar dimension of affective valence from approaching rewarding situations to avoiding punitive situations Avoiding and approaching behaviors determine the disposition to the primary emotions of fear and attachment and the behavioral responses to the environmental stimuli of danger novelty and reward Approach or avoidance behaviors are associated with the brain pathways controlling cognitive and attentional function reward sensitivity and emotional expression involving prefrontal cortex amygdala striatum and cerebellum Individual differences in approach and avoidance behavior might be modulated by normal variance in the level of functioning of different neurotransmitter systems such as dopaminergic serotonergic noradrenergic and endocannabinoid systems as well as many peptides such as corticotropin releasing hormone These substances act at various central target areas to increase intensity of appetitive or defensive motivation Physiologically personality temperaments of approach and avoidance are viewed as instigators of propensity They produce immediate affective cognitive and behavioral inclinations in response to stimuli and orient individuals across domains and situations in a consistent fashion Although the action undoubtedly emerges directly from these temperamental proclivities ultimate behavioral outcomes are often a function of the integration among goal pursuit self regulation and temperament trait Defective coping strategies to aversive or rewarding stimuli characterize the patho physiology of anxiety and stress related disorders or compulsive and addiction behaviors respectively Individuals with neuropsychiatric symptoms such as depression suicidal behavior bipolar mania schizophrenia substance use disorders pathological gambling and anxiety disorders have scores which fall at the extreme tails of the normal distribution for a specific temperamental trait The present Research Topic on the individual differences in emotional and motivational processing emphasizes the link between neuronal pattern and behavioral expression The Topic includes experimental and clinical researches addressing the individual differences related to approach and avoidance and their behavioral characterization structural and neurochemical profiles synaptic connections and receptor expressions Studies are organized in a framework that puts in evidence the phenotypic expression and neurobiological patterns characterizing the individual differences and their biological variance

Luby, 2006-07-10 This important volume comprehensively explores the development of psychiatric disorders in 2 to 6 year olds detailing how the growing empirical knowledge base may lead to improved interventions for young children and their families Leading contributors examine advances in the conceptualization and diagnosis of early onset disruptive disorders mood and anxiety disorders eating and sleeping disorders autism and other clinical problems Promising treatment strategies are described including developmentally specific behavioral and play therapies and available evidence for their effectiveness is presented The literature on preschool psychopharmacology is also reviewed Throughout the discussion is grounded in the many recent advances on normative developmental processes in the preschool period Handbook of Parenting Marc H. Bornstein, 2019-02-01 This highly anticipated third edition of the Handbook of Parenting brings together an array of field leading experts who have worked in different ways toward understanding the many diverse aspects of parenting Contributors to the Handbook look to the most recent research and thinking to shed light on topics every parent professional and policymaker wonders about Parenting is a perennially hot topic After all everyone who has ever lived has been parented and the vast majority of people become parents themselves No wonder bookstores house shelves of how to parenting books and magazine racks in pharmacies and airports overflow with periodicals that feature parenting advice. However, almost none of these is evidence based. The Handbook of Parenting is Period. Each chapter has been written to be read and absorbed in a single sitting and includes historical considerations of the topic, a discussion of central issues and theory, a review of classical and modern research, and forecasts of future directions of theory and research. Together, the five volumes in the Handbook cover Children and Parenting, the Biology and Ecology of Parenting, Being and Becoming a Parent, Social Conditions and Applied Parenting, and the Practice of Parenting. Volume 3, Being and Becoming a Parent, considers a large cast of characters responsible for parenting, each with her or his own customs and agenda, and examines what the psychological characteristics and social interests of those individuals reveal about what parenting is. Chapters in Part I on The Parent show just how rich and multifaceted is the constellation of children's caregivers. Considered first are family systems, and then successively mothers and fathers, coparenting and gatekeeping between parents, adolescent parenting, grandparenting, and single parenthood, divorced and remarried parenting, lesbian and gay parents, and finally sibling caregivers and nonparental caregiving. Parenting also draws on transient and enduring physical, personality, and intellectual characteristics of the individual. The chapters in Part II on Becoming and Being a Parent consider the intergenerational transmission of parenting, parenting and contemporary reproductive technologies, the transition to parenthood, and stages of parental development, and then chapters turn to parents' well-being, emotions, self-efficacy, cognitions, and attributions, as well as socialization, personality in parenting, and psychoanalytic theory. These features of parents serve many functions; they generate and shape parental practices, mediate the effectiveness of parenting, and help to organize parenting.
