

INTERACTIONS AMONG LIVING THINGS

The Flow of Energy

All organisms are dependent on each other for the energy they need to live. The energy that flows from the sun to the producers (plants) and then to the consumers (animals) is called the flow of energy. The flow of energy is always from the sun to the producers and then to the consumers.

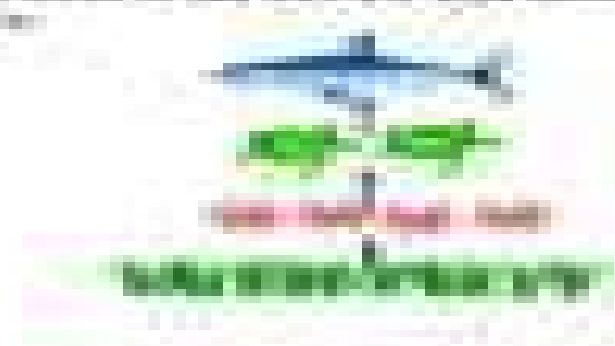

Food Chains

One way to show the flow of energy is by using a food chain.

What if the fox ate the rabbit? What if the rabbit ate the tree? The flow of energy would be different. The flow of energy is always from the sun to the producers and then to the consumers.

The flow of energy is always from the sun to the producers and then to the consumers. The flow of energy is always from the sun to the producers and then to the consumers. The flow of energy is always from the sun to the producers and then to the consumers.
