Linguistic variation, identity construction and cognition Katie K. Drager,2015-10-19 Speakers use a variety of different linguistic resources in the construction of their identities and they are able to do so because their mental representations of linguistic and social information are linked While the exact nature of these representations remains unclear there is growing evidence that they encode a great deal more phonetic detail than traditionally assumed and that the phonetic detail is linked with word based information This book investigates the ways in which a lemma s phonetic realisation depends on a combination of its grammatical function and the speaker s social group This question is investigated within the context of the word like as it is produced and perceived by students at an all girls high school in New Zealand The results are used to inform an exemplar based model of speech production and perception in which the quality and frequency of linguistic and non linguistic variants contribute to a speaker s style Animal Behavior in the Tropics Shakunthala Sridhara,Akshay Kumar Chakravarthy,Geetha Bali,Rallapalli Ramamurthi,2025-03-13 This book discusses trends in animal behavior focusing specifically on vertebrates from the tropical region It includes topics on a wide range of disciplines such as electrophysiology molecular biology reproductive physiology foraging and feeding behavior chemical ethology and ecology in situ and ex situ conservation circadian rhythms climate change and several other related topics that are of high interest and utility Tropical countries have a unique and diversified fauna across their different biogeographical habitats This book covers numerous species of vertebrates from the tropical region and also discusses several case studies to provide detailed information about the recent trends in the animal behavior pattern This book is useful for academicians researchers ethologists wildlife specialists and practitioners This book is also an interesting read for scholars professors and policy makers involved in the field of zoology naturalists and wildlife enthusiasts Intonation between phrasing and accent Timo

Buchholz,2023-11-06 Are our concepts from prosodic typology like word stress pitch accent head edge prominence really that tightly linked to individual languages How are meanings often signaled via intonation in European languages like information structure and sentence type expressed in communicative acts between speakers who are bilingual in such a European language Spanish and one in which many of these meanings are expressed by morphology Quechua Based on semi spontaneous dialogical elicitation data in both Spanish and Quechua gathered via fieldwork in the bilingual community of Huari Peru this work provides some challenging answers to these questions Besides being the first detailed description of the prosody of a Central Quechuan language it provides an in depth study of the intonational systems and prosodic structures of the two languages and shows that their variation spaces overlap to a large extent in turns exhibiting or not exhibiting evidence of word stress pitch accents lexical pitch accents in loanwords and head or edge prominence Recording Music
