Growth Recurring Economic Change In World History Clarendon Paperbacks:

Growth Recurring Eric Lionel Jones, 1993 This study concerns the conflict in world history between economic growth and political greed E L Jones author of the groundbreaking The European Miracle proposes two fundamentally new frameworks One replaces industrial revolution or great discontinuity as the source of change and challenges the reader to accept early periods and non western societies as vital to understanding the growth process It shows that growth occurred independently in Sung China and Japan as well as in Europe The second framework offers a new explanation in which tendencies for growth were omnipresent but were usually suppressed The obstacles to growth and their subsequent erosion is reviewed providing an explanation of the modern world economy in which growth has recurred and East Asia has taken a prominent place

Growth Recurring Eric Lionel Jones, 2000 An affordable new edition intended for course use The Colonizer's Model of the World J. M. Blaut, 2012-07-23 This influential book challenges one of the most pervasive and powerful beliefs of our time that Europe rose to modernity and world dominance due to unique qualities of race environment culture mind or spirit and that progress for the rest of the world resulted from the diffusion of European civilization J M Blaut persuasively argues that this doctrine is not grounded in the facts of history and geography but in the ideology of colonialism Blaut traces the colonizer's model of the world from its 16th century origins to its present form in theories of economic development modernization and new world order Atlas of World History Patrick Karl O'Brien, Patrick O'Brien, 2002 Synthesizing exceptional cartography and impeccable scholarship this edition traces 12 000 years of history with 450 maps and over 200 000 words of text 200 illustrations The Dynamics of Socio-Economic Development Adam Szirmai, 2005-01-20 Why are poor countries poor and rich countries rich How are wealth and poverty related to changes in nutrition health life expectancy education population growth and politics This modern non technical 2005 introduction to development studies explores the dynamics of socio economic development and stagnation in developing countries Taking a quantitative and comparative approach to contemporary debates within their broader context Szirmai examines historical institutional demographic sociological political and cultural factors Key chapters focus on economic growth technological change industrialisation agricultural development and consider social dimensions such as population growth health and education Each chapter contains comparative statistics on trends from a sample of twenty nine developing countries This rich statistical database allows students to strengthen their understanding of comparative development experiences Assuming no prior knowledge of economics the book is suited for use in inter disciplinary development studies programmes as well as economics courses and will also interest practitioners pursuing careers in developing countries The Pacific in the Age of Early Industrialization Kenneth Pomeranz, 2017-05-15 The essays selected for this volume show how the Pacific rapidly became part of an industrializing world Its raw materials notably rubber and copper were critical some of its handicraft industries were devastated by mechanized competition others survived and adapted contributing to distinctive patterns of industrialization that made Japan a new center of power and also laid the groundwork for later growth in Taiwan Korea and coastal China The Pacific coast of the Americas was also first drawn into an industrial world largely as an exporter of raw materials but North and South diverged rapidly portending futures even more different than those of Northeast and Southeast Asia By the 1930s when the uneven effects of industrialization would have much to do with plunging the Pacific into war one can already glimpse in outline the structural bases for many of the region s contemporary characteristics All this is set in context in the important introduction by Kenneth Pomeranz

Leading Sectors and World Powers George Modelski,William R. Thompson,1996 The idea that political and economic power moves in coordinated cycles has long intrigued political scientists and political economists for if a pattern exists in the rise and fall of international political power a model explaining this pattern gains predictive qualities In Leading Sectors and World Powers George Modelski and William R Thompson venture beyond previous attempts to explain why major powers rise fall and fight about their changing status to establish an explicit connection between war economic innovation and world leadership They argue that surges in economic innovation which in turn are tied to global war determine leadership in the global system Modelski and Thompson base their theory on the coordination of long cycles phases of world order and decay punctuated by intensive bouts of global war and K waves cycles delineating the wax and wane of leading industrial sectors They contend that K waves appear in paired sets correlated to long cycle shifts in political power Modelski and Thompson conclude by discussing the nature and timing of the next K wave long cycle peak commenting on the relevance of it for U S industrial policy and speculating on the possibility of evolving away from this pattern in the near future
