The American Dream for Students of Color

Gretchen Givens Generett, Amy M. Olson, 2021-03-24 In The American Dream for Students of Color the tenets of the American Dream as a merit narrative enacted in schools are examined to better understand how beliefs about talent hard work and perseverance support the status quo rather than critically analyze barriers to educational success for students of color and students from a poverty context Using narrative methodologies this book explores the connections and consistencies within and between their personal narratives and the narratives of school youth and educators that work with them Based on analysis of these shared stories the authors argue for the importance of moving from individualized success stories that reify hard work and perseverance to collective communal stories that serve to break down myths of meritocracy critically examine inequities and move educational advocates forward in authentic audacious hopeful ways , The Color of Everything

The Edge of Race Kalervo Gulson, Zeus Leonardo, David Gillborn, 2017-10-02 The phrase the edge of race can be used both as a description and as a response to two key concerns The first of these is that while race is increasingly on the periphery of education policy with a growing disregard shown for racist inequities as education systems become dominated by market driven concerns it is important that we map the shifting relations of race in neoliberal politics and policies The second

concern is that at this time within and outside the spaces of the academy even to mention race equity is to risk condemnation marginalization and ridicule The authors in this collection use the edge of race as a provocation in order to examine the concepts methodologies policies politics processes and practices associated with race and racism in education The chapters offer empirical examples of the perpetuation and perniciousness of racism that point to the continued salience of research about race Additionally the chapters make contributions to conceptual and methodological understandings of race and racism The contributors illustrate the contingency productivity and fragility of race as a concept and point to how educational research continues to be a contested site in and from which to study race and education This book was originally published as a special issue of Discourse Studies in the Cultural Politics of Education Anxious Creativity David Trend, 2019-09-03 Creativity is getting new attention in today's America along the way revealing fault lines in U.S. culture Surveys show people overwhelmingly seeing creativity as both a desirable trait and a work enhancement yet most say they just aren't creative Like beauty and wealth creativity seems universally desired but insufficiently possessed Businesses likewise see innovation as essential to productivity and growth but can't bring themselves to risk new ideas Even as one's inner artist is hyped by a booming self-help industry creative education dwindles in U.S. schools Anxious Creativity When Imagination Fails examines this conceptual mess while focusing on how America's current edginess dampens creativity in everyone Written in an engaging and accessible style Anxious Creativity draws on current ideas in the social sciences economics and the arts Discussion centers on the knotty problem of reconciling the expressive potential in all people with the nation's tendency to reward only a few Fortunately there is some good news as scientists economists and creative professionals have begun advocating new ways of sharing and collaboration Building on these prospects the book argues that America's innovation crisis demands a rethinking of individualism competition and the ways creativity is rewarded
