How Good Parent Jaqueline Mitchell:

How God Shows Up Judith Marie RN MA MSW, 2017-10-30 This deeply revealing and clutching true story portrays a single parent woman who seeks her own death after experiencing the piercing pain of the sudden loss of her eleven year old daughter She struggles a dual reality of consciousness as she bears the rivalry with her mind and emotions and wavers fearfully with purpose for life and a deeply intense rendezvous with God to find her Judith s determination to find what it means and where it is that she will find her daughter as a member of eternal life is daunting and life giving as she goes over all the details of what has happened and then finds resolve that is greater than her grieving and prevails as she meets with her daughter several times in her eternal existence Her Final Gamble Mary V. Slinkard, 2025-05-13 With her reputation on the line one woman must make the ultimate gamble to save her career her client and a young boy s life Jacqueline Stone is an accomplished criminal defense attorney whose tenacity to uncover the truth has earned her the reputation as the one lawyer who can win unwinnable cases But when a mysterious car accident kills both her son and husband leaving her the sole survivor she is exiled from her prestigious firm Battling personal demons Jacqueline finds herself at a crossroads ready to give up law altogether until accused murderer Ryan Mitchell seeks her counsel and she sees an opportunity for redemption But with evidence mounting against her client a child witness too traumatized to provide information and a mysterious photograph leading to more questions than answers this case will be no easy feat Jacqueline must navigate treacherous waters to not only save her career but also protect Ryan s young son from a relentless killer In a high stakes gamble she must rely on the wisdom of a deceased woman as she races against time to solve the murder and unravel a web of deceit that threatens to consume them all Breaking the Silence Ellen Grünkemeier, 2013 South Africa is one of the countries in the world most affected by HIV AIDS and yet until recently the epidemic was barely visible in South African literature Much can be gained from approaching the South African epidemic through creative texts such as novels photographs films cartoons and murals because they produce and circulate meanings of HIV AIDS and its various facets such as its origin transmission routes and physical manifestations Other aspects explored are the denial of HIV AIDS its stigmatisation discriminatory practices modes of disclosure access to anti retroviral medication as well as the role of alternative treatment Creative texts which are open to different and possibly contradictory readings can serve as a starting point to increase the cultural visibility of the virus and to challenge dominant ideas about the epidemic The cultural constructions of HIV AIDS should be carefully examined because the meanings are pervasive and have very real consequences they play a powerful role both in determining which issues receive attention and in shaping public understanding of the virus Imperialism and Development Nicholas Westcott, 2020 A compelling exploration of one of the most ill advised and calamitous interventions in colonial development history The Casey Cort Series Aime Austin, 2018-09-06 Box Set Two of the Casey Cort Legal Thriller Series Cleveland lawyer Casey Cort lost more than her job

The state was perceived as a resource as well as a threat by local peoples. Although the British did introduce significant changes to the character of governance in Darfur, local populations negotiated the significance of these innovations, challenging the authority of state-appointed chiefs, defying official attempts to police the boundaries of ethnic territories and competing for the resources of political support and development that the state represented. Even the violence of the state was shaped and channelled by the initiative of local elites. Finally, the author suggests that contemporary conflict and politics in the region must be understood in the context of this deeper history of interaction between state and local agendas in shaping everyday realities of power and governance.

Chris Vaughan is Lecturer in African History at Liverpool John Moores University. Previously he taught at the Universities of Durham, Leeds, Liverpool and Edinburgh. His articles have appeared in the Journal of African History and the Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History. He is co-editor with Lotje De Vries and Mareike Schomerus of The Borderlands of South Sudan: Dealing with Government in South Sudan (Cherry Leonardi, 2013). It explores various aspects of chiefly authority in South Sudan from its historical origins and evolution under colonial, postcolonial and military rule to its current roles and value in the newly independent country. South Sudan became Africa's newest nation in 2011 following decades of armed conflict. Chiefs or traditional authorities became a particular focus of attention during the international relief effort and post-war reconstruction and state building. But traditional authority in South Sudan has been much misunderstood. Institutions of chiefship were created during the colonial period but originated out of a much longer process of dealing with predatory external forces. This book addresses a significant paradox in African studies: more widely if chiefs were the product of colonial states, why have they survived or revived in recent decades? By examining the long-term history of chiefship in the vicinity of three towns, the book also argues for a new approach to the history of towns in South Sudan. Towns have previously been analysed as the loci of alien state power, yet the book demonstrates that these government centres formed an expanding urban frontier on which people actively sought knowledge and resources of the state. Chiefs mediated relations on and across this frontier and in the process chiefship became central to constituting both the state and local communities.

Cherry Leonardi is Senior Lecturer in African History at Durham University, a former course director of the Rift Valley Institute's Sudan course and a member of the council of the British Institute in Eastern Africa. Published in association with the British Institute in Eastern Africa.

The State of Post-conflict Reconstruction (Naseem Badiey, 2014). Naseem Badiey examines the local dynamics of the emerging capital city of Juba, Southern Sudan, during the historically pivotal transition period following the 2005 Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA). Focusing on the intersections of land tenure reform and urban development, she challenges the dominant paradigm of post-conflict reconstruction and reconceptualizes state building as a social process underpinned by negotiation. Badiey explores local resistance to reconstruction programmes, debates over the interpretation of peace settlements and competing claims to land and resources, not as problems to be solved through interventions but as negotiations of authority which are fundamental to shaping the character of the state While donors and aid agency officials anticipated clashes between the Government of Sudan and the Sudan People's Liberation Movement SPLM following the CPA they did not foresee internal divisions that impeded reconstruction in Southern Sudan raising serious questions about the viability of an independent state In Juba local elites interpreted the CPA in line with their economic and political interests using claims to land authority and political power to challenge the SPLM's agenda for urban reconstruction In revealing how local actors strategically interpreted the framework of land rights in Southern Sudan the book offers a basis for understanding the challenges that confront the nascent South Sudan's state builders and their international partners in the future NASEEM BADIEY is Assistant Professor of International Development and Humanitarian Action at California State University Monterey Bay

Marikana Julian Brown, 2022 In August 2012 the South African police at the encouragement of mining capital and with the support of the political state intervened to end a week long strike at the Lonmin platinum mine in Marikana in South Africa's North West Province On the afternoon of Thursday 16 August they police shot and killed 34 men Hundreds more were injured some shot as they fled None posed a threat to any police officer Recognised by many as an event of international significance in stories of global politics and labour relations the perspectives of the miners has however been almost missing from published accounts This book for the first time brings into focus the men's lives and deaths telling the stories of those who embarked on the strike those who were killed and of the family members who have survived to fight for the memories of their loved ones It places the strike in the context of South Africa's long history of racial and economic exclusion explaining how the miners came to be in Marikana how their lives were ordinarily lived and the substance of their complaints It shows how the strike developed from an initial gathering into a mass movement of more than 3 000 workers It discusses the violence of the strike and explores the political context of the state's response and the eagerness of the police to collaborate in suppressing the strike Recounting the events of the massacre in unprecedented detail the book sets out how each miner died and everything we know about the police operation Finally Brown traces the aftermath the attempts of the families of the deceased to identify and bury their dead and then the state's attempts to spin a narrative that placed all blame on the miners the subsequent Commission of Inquiry and its failure to resolve any real issues and the solidarity politics that have emerged since

Kenya's and Zambia's Relations with China 1949-2019 Jodie Yuzhou Sun, 2023 Examines the history of post colonial Kenya's and Zambia's relations with the People's Republic of China from ideological political economic and social perspectives Africa has become a major platform from which to analyse and understand China's growing influence in the global South Yet the impact of their historical relationship has been largely overlooked Through the triangulation of the global Cold War African history and Chinese history this study provides a detailed analysis of China Africa relations in the second half of the 20th century Examining the encounters conflicts and dynamics of China Kenya Zambia relations from the 1950s until the present as well as the basis on which historical narratives have been constructed the book presents two contrasting state perspectives underlining the concept of African agency Driven by a class based analysis of world revolution Communist China s foreign policy did not distinguish significantly between Kenya and Zambia Both countries sought ideological and material support from China in the years after their independence The Kenya African National Union under both Jomo Kenyatta and Daniel Moi pursued a consistently pragmatic foreign agenda and despite political tensions and ideological rifts with China since the mid 1960s Sino Kenyan trade has continued to grow steadily In contrast China Zambia relations under Kenneth Kaunda were cordial despite their political differences Zambian leaders maintained a relatively high consensus that any alleged Chinese Communist threat would not be allowed to fuel power struggles within their United National Independence Party Challenging both the widely accepted role of China Africa s historical lineage as well as the tendency to assume uniformity in China s relationships across the continent the author explains the development of these relationships and sheds light on the historical underpinnings or lack thereof on contemporary China Africa relations
