Perilous Journey Patricia Sutherland, 2003 A powerful life affirming true story begins like a fairy tale come true when attractive assertive and well educated Patty Sutherland meets a handsome prince from Malaysia and they fall in love At his insistence Patty converts to the Muslim faith so they can marry They settle on an idyllic island resort he owns in the South China Sea Soon their happiness is enhanced by the birth of a daughter and later a son But as time passes Patty begins to see another dimension of the man and the family into which she married they are violent amoral and involved with the Muslim extremist group which consorts in secret to bring down the West Realizing she and her children have to get away Patty tells her husband the marriage is over Immediately he snatches the children s passports and demands Patty leave the country alone or he threatens he will have her and the children killed In the next years as she travels between America and Malaysia trying to get custody Patty sees that even with the excellent lawyer she has hired there will be no justice since the all powerful Islamic clergy close to her husband rule the religious court system Finally Patty realizes the only way to rescue her children is to smuggle them past the extremists guarding them And she begins to plan as the story accelerates with chilling momentum their escape to freedom a perilous journey

The Social Cognitive Neuroscience of Leading Organizational Change Robert A. Snyder, 2016-03-10 In a very understandable practical and accessible manner this book applies recent groundbreaking findings from behavioral neuroscience to the most complex and vexing challenges in organizations today In particular it addresses managing large scale organizational changes such as mergers and acquisitions providing lessons and tactics that can be usefully applied to in many different settings In addition to discussing successful practices it also identifies the reasons that most past comprehensive long term change projects have failed and unmask the counterproductive effects of the typical evolutionary or emotion based attempts to change group and individual behavior using neuroscience as its principal tool
