I Little Asylum Semiotexte:

I, Little Asylum Emmanuelle Guattari, 2014-10-10 A lyrical account of a childhood spent in a castle disguised as a psychiatric clinic written by the daughter of Félix Guattari A moment later Lacan is chattering with me and giving me some crayons to draw with from I Little Asylum Founded in 1951 and renowned in the world of psychiatry the experimental psychiatric clinic of La Borde sought to break with the traditional internment of the mentally ill and to have them participate in the material organization of collective life The clinic owed much of its approach to psychoanalyst and philosopher Félix Guattari who was its codirector with Jean Oury until 1992 In this lyrical chronicle of a childhood at La Borde Félix Guattari's daughter Emmanuelle Guattari offers a series of impressionistic vignettes drawn from her own experiences As a child whose parents worked in the clinic Emmanuelle Guattari Manou experienced La Borde which is housed in a castle in the middle of a spacious park as a place not of confinement but of imagination and play She evokes a landscape that is surreal but also mundane describing the fat monkey named Boubou her father kept at the clinic interactions between the La Borde kids and the Residents aka the Insane feared by the locals the ever fascinating rainbow hued shit pit on the grounds and prank calls to the clinic switchboard And of course there is Félix Guattari himself at the dinner table battling a rat and in his daughter's dreams Emmanuelle Guattari's tale of childlike wonder offers a poetic counterpoint to the writings of her father and his intellectual circle

Edge Entanglements with Mental Health Allyship, Research, and Practice Tim Barlott, Jenny Setchell, 2022-12-30 Edge Entanglements traverses the borderlands of the community mental health sector by plugging in to concepts offered by Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari along with work from Mad Studies postcolonial and feminist scholars Barlott and Setchell demonstrate what postqualitative inquiry can do surfacing the transformative potential of freely given relationships between psychiatrised people and allies in the community Thinking with theory the authors map the composition and generative processes of freely given ally relationships Edge Entanglements surfaces how such relationships can unsettle constraints of the mental health sector and produce creative possibilities for psychiatrised people Affectionately creating harmonies between theory and empirical data the authors sketch ally relationships in ways that move Allyship is enacted through micropolitical processes of becoming complicit ongoing movement towards taking on the struggle of another as your own Barlott and Setchell's work offers both conceptual and practical insights into postqualitative experimentation relationship oriented mental health practice and citizen activism that unsettles disciplinary boundaries Ongoing disruptive movements on the margins of the mental health sector such as freely given relationships offer opportunities to be otherwise Edge Entanglements is for people whose lives and practices are precariously interconnected with the mental health sector and are interested in doing things differently This book is likely to be useful for novice and established applied new material and or posthumanist scholars interested in postqualitative theory driven research health practitioners seeking alternative or radical approaches to their work and people interested in citizen advocacy activism and community organising in out of the mental health sector Non-Representational Theory and the Creative Arts Candice P. Boyd, Christian Edwardes, 2019-03-15 This book presents distinct perspectives from both geographically oriented creative practices and geographers working with arts based processes In doing so it fills a significant gap in the already sizeable body of non representational discourse by bringing together images and reflections on performances art practice theatre dance and sound production alongside theoretical contributions and examples of creative writing It considers how contemporary art making is being shaped by spatial enquiry and how geographical research has been influenced by artistic practice It provides a clear and concise overview of the principles of non representational theory for researchers and practitioners in the creative arts and across its four sections demonstrates the potential for non representational theory to bring cultural geography and contemporary art closer than ever before The Best American Poetry 2022 David Lehman, Matthew Zapruder, 2022-09-13 Updated annually and collected from electronic and print journals an anthology showcases recent work from the best known and up and coming contemporary poets Documentary Film and Radical Psychiatry Des O'Rawe, 2024-12-19 This book examines how documentary film responded to the methods and controversies associated with radical psychiatry especially during the long 1960s Broad in scope and comparative in approach it discusses a range of films in terms of how their production histories and visual styles were influenced by wider cultural technological and autobiographical factors The book argues that documentary filmmaking offers both an important critical perspective on psychiatric treatments institutions and attitudes as well as contributing to a critique of how normative modes of being are constructed across mainstream media and popular culture In their negotiations with the politics of psychiatry such films will often question the ethnographic and observational integrity of the documentary or non fiction form itself especially when it adopts diaristic interactive socially engaged and advocacy strategies to represent mental illness and healthcare provision The relationship between documentary film and the constellation of insights arguments communities and individuals associated with the moment of radical psychiatry remains a complex but indispensable legacy of the post war era The Affect Lab Grant Bollmer, 2023-09-29 Examines how our understanding of emotion is shaped by the devices we use to measure it Since the late nineteenth century psychologists have used technological forms of media to measure and analyze emotion In The Affect Lab Grant Bollmer examines the use of measurement tools such as electrical shocks photography video and the electroencephalograph to argue that research on emotions has confused the physiology of emotion with the tools that define its inscription Bollmer shows that the psychological definitions of emotion have long been directly shaped by the physical qualities of the devices used in laboratory research To investigate these devices The Affect Lab examines four technologies related to the history of psychology in North America spiritualist toys at Harvard University serial photography in early American psychological laboratories experiments on psychopaths performed with an instrument called an Offner Dynograph and the development of the electropsychometer or E Meter by Volney Mathison and L Ron Hubbard Challenging the large body of humanities research surrounding affect theory The Affect Lab identifies an understudied problem in formulations of affect how affect is a construction inseparable from the techniques and devices used to identify and measure it Ultimately Bollmer offers a new critique of affect and affect theory demonstrating how deferrals to psychology and neuroscience in contemporary theory and philosophy neglect the material of experimental scientific research Retail e book files for this title are screen reader friendly with images accompanied by short alt text and or extended descriptions Qui Parle ,2014
