Postcolonial Representations of Women Rachel Bailey Jones, 2011-06-11 In this accessible combination of post colonial theory feminism and pedagogy the author advocates using subversive and contemporary artistic representations of women to remodel traditional stereotypes in education It is in this key sector that values and norms are molded and prejudice kept at bay yet the legacy of colonialism continues to pervade official education received in classrooms as well as unofficial education ingested via popular culture and the media The result is a variety of distorted images of women and gender in which women appear as two dimensional stereotypes The text analyzes both current and historical colonial representations of women in a pedagogical context In doing so it seeks to recast our conception of what difference is challenging historical patriarchal gender relations with their stereotypical representations that continue to marginalize minority populations in the first world and billions of women elsewhere These distorted images the book argues can be subverted using the semiology provided by postcolonialism and transnational feminism and the work of contemporary artists who rethink and recontextualize the visual codes of colonialism These resistive images created by women who challenge and subvert patriarchal modes of representation can be used to create educational environments that provide an alternative view of women of non western origin

Vertical Margins Reuben J. Ellis, 2001 History meets high altitude adventure This engaging analysis of twentieth century imperialism takes early mountaineering beyond the realm of recreation Vertical Margins sets Halford Mackinder s 1899 climb of Mt Kenya Annie Smith Peck s 1908 ascent of Huascaran in Bolivia and John Baptiste Noel s filming of the 1924 British attempt on Mt Everest in the larger historical context of American and British foreign policy and neo imperialism Reuben Ellis shows that mountain exploration reached far beyond the motivations of adrenaline driven adventurers to an aggressive ideology of power and expansion that fed the New Imperialism the end of the era of European empire building and the beginnings of American dominance in world affairs With so many mountains at the margins of European and American territorial and economic domains mountaineering often overlapped with the motivations of empire the earth s mountains came to be regarded as frontiers open to the full range of political economic and personal concerns that drove geographical exploration
